

Pearson Explains Plan:

Nuclear Arms Only With NATO

Test-Ban Parley To Resume

GENEVA (Reuters) — The Soviet Union agreed today to further efforts to break the nuclear test-ban deadlock in the three-power subcommittee of the Disarmament Commission conference.

But Russia at the same time sharply criticized the United States disarmament plan and the Western disarmament stand in general.

A British spokesman said the U.S., Britain and Russia will meet Thursday, ending speculation that the Russians would refuse to further negotiations in protest against renewed American nuclear testing.

But diplomatic observers were cautious about the final Soviet attitude pending the outcome of Thursday's meeting, at which Russian test-ban negotiator Semyon Tsarapkin will preside.

Chief Russian delegate Valerian Zorin made a "very bitter" speech in reply to an address by the British delegate suggesting more informal meetings at the conference here, authoritative Western sources said.

VOICES SUSPICION

The source said Zorin's hour-long address was "a mixture of suspicion and insinuation directed against the United States disarmament plan and Western intentions generally."

British delegate Joseph Godber meanwhile told the conference that his confidence in Russia's will to disarmament had been "much shaken."

He said he was afraid that the Soviet refusal to agree on the vital question of international verification of nuclear explosions and other suspicious events "is just not good enough."

Leader Warmly Welcomed

By FRANK RUTTER

The federal election campaign here got off to a fast start Tuesday night when 300 Victorians turned out to meet Liberal Leader Lester Pearson at Central Junior High School.

The election reception meeting, billed as a "reception" for coffee and handshakes, showed the first break of election enthusiasm through Victorian reserve. Mr. Pearson drew enthusiastic applause.

It was the climax of a day's dash down Vancouver Island in which a lot of things went wrong—but everything went just right for the national Liberal leader in Victoria.

He shook a lot of hands all right—but then added an unexpected "serious" speech on defence policy.

Main plank of the Liberal defence policy is to stop Canada from becoming a nuclear power; but Mr. Pearson wouldn't promise that policy would not be changed.

"We won't make nuclear

See Other Stories,
Pictures, Pages 2, 3

weapons, acquire them or use them, either under our own control or under the control of the U.S.," he said.

But he added: "In no way do I apologize for adding that this is our position on the basis of present information which we have. We would examine each new development in the field of foreign policy and in the field of weapons, and in the field of overriding responsibility of a government for the security of the Canadian people."

ALLIANCE POOL

And, Mr. Pearson said, it might be necessary for Canadian forces under NATO control, to be equipped with nuclear weapons in an alliance pool.

"Arms can protect us if we get into a war—nothing can protect us from war."

"The only justification for arms is to prevent war."

"So we have to spend money on defence for this purpose."

Such a situation has been proved by history ineffective in preserving peace, Mr. Pearson said. Sooner or later there would have to be "a breathing space."

"In that breathing space you can find a better foundation for peace."

This was what the Liberal party would work for.

"We must work toward the day when peace will be protected by something better and stronger than the fear of reprisals that would annihilate the world."

Mr. Pearson said the NATO nuclear pool that he suggested would work to that goal by limiting rather than expanding the number of "nuclear nations" with individual control over their weapons.

TORIES FAILED

Two things a Liberal government would do that the Conservatives have failed, he said, are:

To tell the public and Parliament its full defence policy; To make clear decisions, closed court for two hours.

'Receiving Day' for Liberal Chief

'Booby-Trapped' Moslems Slit Throat of Bystander

(CP From AP-Reuters)

ALGIERS — A savage wave of Secret Army terrorism including the explosion of a booby-trapped car left at least 16 Moslems dead and upwards of 100 wounded today.

It was the bloodiest day in recent weeks in Algiers, and for a time it appeared that Moslem patience was about to break into bitter widespread vengeance against the Europeans.

One European caught up in a Moslem crowd after the booby-trapped car exploded had his throat cut. But otherwise the well-disciplined Moslems, taken in hand by nationalist agents, kept calm.

One nationalist told a reporter, however, "this sort of thing can't go on eternally."

At least eight Moslems were killed when the booby-trapped car exploded like a bomb beside a crowd of 1,500 Moslems waiting for work on the Algiers docks. About 100 were injured.

In the withering hail of metal, many were so badly hurt they were not expected to live.

Tension mounted in the Casbah and other Moslem quarters as cars carrying the wounded arrived from the blast scene in front of an employment centre for Moslem dockworkers.

European workers in nearby banks and industrial firms were hurriedly sent home as French security forces and Moslem insurgent agents tried to head off a possible rampage by Moslem crowds.

The European was seized and killed by a band of the area shortly after the blast. It was the second terrorist attack against a Moslem labor centre in two days.

Blast Opens Up Big Crater

Crowds of enraged Moslems were pressing around the hiring office when suddenly without warning the car exploded. Panic sent scores of Moslems fleeing in all directions, then began returning to carry off their wounded.

The car was ripped apart and pieces were hurled for several dozen yards.

When the explosion charged, it opened a crater about eight or 10 feet in diameter in the paved dock area along the Mediterranean sea front. A water pipe was cut and a geyser shot up from the scene.

The European Secret Army which opposes Moslem rule in an independent Algeria, has been desperately attempting to provoke the Moslems into attacks on Europeans, in the hope that the French Army would side with the Europeans. Thus, the cease-fire agreements signed March 18 would be compromised or broken and Algeria's evolution toward independence would be slowed or halted.

Detective In Divorce Case Jailed

OTTAWA (CP) — Charles Ottow, 53-year-old Montreal private detective, was sentenced today to five years in penitentiary for giving perjured evidence before a Senate subcommittee.

It is the first time a person has been convicted for perjury in connection with a Senate divorce hearing.

Charbon was convicted of giving false evidence by stating he had found Jacques Leduc, 33, and Anna Guitier in a Quebec City motel cabin Aug. 29. Both Mrs. Yvette Leduc, 34, of Montreal, who applied for and was granted a divorce—and her former husband have remarried.

Another Charged

Andre Lecompte, 22, of Montreal has been charged with giving false testimony in the same case.

During the trial, Crown Attorney John Cassels said the result of the trial could upset the new marital status of the divorced couple.

CROWNED HEADS GO PLEBEIAN

Buses, Bars and Tulips

(CP from Reuters-AP)

LISSE, The Netherlands — Three busloads of European royalty arrived here today for a visit to Holland's famed Keukenhof tulip gardens.

The guests—some of whom had never ridden in anything so plebeian as a tourist bus before—were in the country for the celebration of the 25th wedding anniversary of Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard.

With Juliana in the first bus were Britain's Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

Three buses, especially hired for the occasion by Juliana, were equipped with wardrobes, water, refrigerator and bar.

The royal party included the Shah of Iran and his Queen Farah, King Olaf of Norway, the Grand Duchess of Luxembourg, Britain's princesses Marina and Alexandra, and Dutch princesses Irene, Margriet and Marjke.

Dutch Crown Princess Beatrix met Belgium's King Baudouin and Queen Fabiola at Schiphol Airport. They then drove to the Keukenhof by car.

The crowned heads were greeted by Lisse Burgomaster T. J. M. De Graaf and a cheering crowd.

The Keukenhof is a flower-bedded park which features tree-lined walks, artificial hills covered with daffodils and tulips and ponds with swans, ducks and rustic bridges.

Tonight the guests will attend a ball on board the 20,565-ton liner Oranje, named for the Royal Dutch House of Oranje.

With taxes going up everywhere, the slogan left for property owners is "Bankruptcy or Bust."

City council won't buy the prosecutor any law books—like providin' him a car but refusin' licence plates.

Y'd hardly say Mister Pearson is a personal friend of Mister Diefenbaker, but he sure knows him well.

RESIGNS

To take over the presidency of Indiana University, U.S. Army Secretary Elvis J. Stahr Jr. resigned today. He will leave his Pentagon post June 30. Stahr is the second top echelon official to leave since the Kennedy administration took office. John B. Connolly resigned as navy secretary to seek the governorship in Texas.

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Adolf Eichmann has agreed to adopt a 16-year-old Canadian girl and asked his wife to take the necessary steps, informed sources said today. The girl was not further identified.

Mrs. Vera Eichmann flew here Sunday for her first meeting with her husband since he was arrested outside their Argentine home two years ago. Eichmann also told his wife that "anti-semitism is wrong" during their prison meeting Sunday, the sources said.

'World Tension To Continue'

ATHENS (AP) — U.S. State Secretary Rusk, arriving today for a NATO meeting, told reporters he sees no prospect of immediate relaxation of world tensions.

"For the immediate future I wish I could hold out a prospect for relaxation but I cannot," Rusk said in an airport statement.

Foreign and defense ministers from the nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization will make one of their periodic appraisals of the NATO policies, touching on the Berlin situation, nuclear power and East-West relations in sessions here.

Foremost among the problems facing the 15 members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was the delicate question of control of nuclear weapons, now essentially in the hands of the United States.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

In deference to the status of the regiment's colonel-in-chief, Princess Mary, and of the cross-Canada television coverage which the presentation of colors on June 16 will enjoy, Lt. Col. Peter Ramsay of the local Scottish is determined to make his citizen soldiers as regular-force-looking as possible.

Officers of the regiment shudder, however, at his latest plan to ban spectacles for officers on parade.

The prospect of a lot of half-blind gentlemen promenading about the field with drawn claymores is horrifying to the rank and file and anyone else who is not entitled to carry similar weapons with which to defend themselves.

Don Shea, editor-in-chief of Victoria College's student newspaper The Martlet over the last college year, was presented with a full set of the year's papers bound in blue leather at a small dinner the other night held for college editors.

What Don doesn't know, yet is that the gift has more than an ornamental value. When he takes over his new job as director of student publications for the college, he will find that the bound set is the only complete file of Martlets in existence.

After 45 years of catering to royalty, British gentry, millions of ocean-going passengers, and countless numbers of troops on the high seas during the war, Bill Parr, catering superintendent of Canadian Pacific Steamships at Montreal, soon will retire here to cater for himself.

A native of Cheshire, England, he has travelled all oceans aboard the Empresses of Japan, Asia, France, Canada and Scotland as steward.

He has prepared meals for the then Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip after their 1951 tour of Canada, the King and Queen of Siam, the Prince of Wales, the dukes of Kent and Gloucester and the Maharajah of Jind.

During the war he was twice torpedoed while catering on the Empresses then functioning as troop carriers.

Mr. Parr will be taking up residence at 4580 Vantreigh Drive.

Mrs. Gordon Wismer, wife of a former B.C. attorney-general, has opened an antique shop in the main lounge of the Empress Hotel.

It is known as the Elizabethan Room.

A most unfavourable exclamation came from the lips of official tourist guide Lona Donaldson as she and her bagpipes met the first flow of visitors from the Princess Marguerite last Friday.

"Gosh," said Lona, "it's so cold I can hardly get the pipes going."

Lona won't have to worry about the weather for a while, as she doesn't go piping again until after her school term is over in the middle of June.

In honor of Victoria's 100th birthday, Greater Victoria Philatelic Society, Vancouver Island Philatelic Society and Victoria Junior Stamp Club will hold a tri-club exhibition in the Douglas Room of the Hudson's Bay store from Tuesday to Saturday of next week.

On display will be a complete issue of World Refugee stamps, and an exhibit from the post office archives in Ottawa.

Training hard for the upcoming Victoria Day parade is local kennelman Michael Williams and his three star border collies Skip, Fan and Mist, who plan to repeat their performance of last year in which they herded half a dozen sheep along the route to demonstrate the use of the dogs. They'll be putting on a couple of shows daily at the Jaycee Fair, too.

Off to the Royal School of Military Engineering at Chatham is Lieut. Anthony Ferguson, 216 Anson, who has served in Victoria with the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, since 1958.

A small tailor shop on Cook Street announces in its window that it caters to even if that meant changing policy to meet changing conditions.

These moves would involve setting up a parliamentary committee on defence policy, something the Tories have refused for four years, and frank discussion with NATO allies on Canada's responsibilities and commitments.

At present these would be limited in North American defence to a role of detection and warning.

'LOOK SILLY'

The Conservative government had failed to follow through on its defence decisions and "as a result, we have wasted millions of dollars, we have defaulted our commitments to our allies."

"This government has made Canada look pretty silly," Mr. Pearson said.

He paid tribute to External Affairs Minister Green for efforts in the cause of world peace. But it was regrettable that so often Mr. Green's colleagues had "sabotaged" those efforts.

About 50 people met Mr. Pearson at Patricia Bay Airport.

The first things he did were to kiss a baby—the son of Liberal campaign worker Frank Preston, and buy a Victoria centennial dollar bill.

He flew in from Comox after an afternoon drive through part of the Comox-Alberni riding the Liberals hope to win with popular Courtenay Mayor Bill Moore.

DELAYED BY FOG

A visit to the Comox RCAF base was called off as the Liberal touring party ran behind schedule all day after almost two hours delay at Toronto because of fog.

But Mr. Pearson drove to Courtenay and attended a coffee and sandwiches reception in the Elks Hall where about 100 local supporters gathered to meet him.

"This is the most important election which we are entering, I think, in peace time, since confederation," he told them.

"We are facing situations in the world which probably transcend anything we have found in peacetime in this country."

"I don't say we have all the answers, but I do tell you we can do more to help our country meet and solve these problems than any other party."

He said he wanted "not the honor of government, but the honor of responsibility."

Firm Price Demanded On Columbia Benefits

VANCOUVER (Special) — Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson said today he would want to see a firm price for Columbia River downstream benefits in a re-negotiated treaty with the U.S.

He told a press conference here that a Liberal government would not ratify the present treaty.

He said Liberal re-negotiation would include a change in the timing of construction of three Columbia River dams in B.C.

Mr. Pearson said the present program was "too rigid and too tight."

"We would postpone for the present some of the construction," he said, but would not go into further details.

On the question of exporting power to the U.S. he said:

"There should be no dogmatic stand taken by any government.

"Every application for export of power should be considered on its merits."

This would include study by the National Energy Board, he said.

Mr. Pearson said the topic of his speech in Victoria tonight will be defence policy.

He said he did not recommend large cuts in the defence budget, but he would discuss some changes.

Mr. Pearson said he was very disappointed in the new navy shipbuilding program announced by the Conservatives which includes two frigates for Victoria shipyards.

He said the whole thing was "very vague" and he wanted to know more details on the ships needed for a modern navy.

Pearson Among Blossoms

By FRANK RUTHER

Staff Reporter

KELOWNA—Lester B. Pearson flew into the home town of Premier Bennett, apples, and Ogopogo today, looking for a liberal blossom time.

Fifty Kelownans met him at the airport, but he didn't attract more than a few casual waves as he drove downtown in an open convertible at the head of a 20-car cavalcade.

There were no apple blossoms as yet—only peaches, apricots and cherries. Premier Bennett and Ogopogo weren't there either.

OPEN AIR LUNCHEON

Some Liberals finally appeared—about 100 of them—at an open air buffet luncheon beside a swimming pool in the ritzy Capri Hotel.

On his way to town, Mr. Pearson dropped in at David Lloyd Jones Senior Citizens' Home.

He introduced himself to the oldest resident, 93-year-old A. S. Toogood.

"I'm very excited to meet you," said Mr. Toogood.

Asked by reporters if he would vote Liberal in the June 18 election, Mr. Toogood said: "I'm not going to promise."

Mr. Pearson also visited City Hall—although there were no crowds there to meet him—and signed the guest book as "Leader of Her Majesty's Opposition," adding in an aside, "Pro tem."

Mr. Pearson was escorted by Elmore Philpott, candidate for the local federal riding of Okanagan—Boundary; Frank Velair, candidate for Okanagan—Revelstoke, and Jarl

ECM Role Would Hamper Commonwealth Status

By VICTOR J. MACKIE

(Times Ottawa Bureau)

See also Page 22.

TORONTO—Prime Minister Diefenbaker expressed doubt that Britain could continue its present role in the Commonwealth if it was to become a member of the Common Market, when he held talks in Ottawa earlier this week with Prime Minister Macmillan, it was learned here Tuesday.

Should the United Kingdom join the six-nation Common Market it would no longer be able to give its undivided attention and allegiance to the Commonwealth, Mr. Diefenbaker emphasized in his discussions with his British counterpart.

Canada was concerned about this aspect of the developments in Europe. The Canadian, Conservative government was afraid that Britain would have to relinquish its pre-eminent position in the Commonwealth, sources here told this correspondent.

Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Macmillan had three meetings. There was a restatement of the positions of both governments concerning Britain's negotiations to join the Common Market. The result was a "better understanding" on both sides of the other's position, a source said here.

GIVES REASONS

Mr. Macmillan outlined to Mr. Diefenbaker and members of the government how the British government felt about the Common Market and why it was anxious to join. He set out the political and economic reasons behind the British application.

Mr. Diefenbaker for his part restated Canada's position. It is understood that from informed sources that he expressed concern that it would have adverse effects on Canada trade, and also that it would have adverse effects on Britain's position in the Commonwealth.

He is understood to have stressed that if Britain committed itself to the Common Market then undoubtedly it would have to devote considerable attention and allegiance to the ECM. No longer could Britain have a "single-mindedness" about the Commonwealth and Commonwealth affairs, her allegiance would inevitably be divided.

The strength with which Mr. Diefenbaker and his colleagues put forward this argument surprised Mr. Macmillan.

SURPRISE BREAKFAST Pearson Gets Set Of JFK Speeches

One of President Kennedy's top aides has presented Liberal leader Lester Pearson with a full set of the president's 1961 campaign speeches.

The presentation was made by Walter Rostow, special adviser on external affairs, who hosted Mr. Pearson at a surprise breakfast party in Washington Monday morning.

Mr. Pearson was there for a Nobel prize-winners' dinner with President Kennedy.

Asked in an interview if he would find the material in his own campaign to be prime minister, Mr. Pearson said:

"Of course everybody should write his own campaign speeches. But they are very interesting."

CHAT WITH JFK

Mr. Pearson had a private 45-minute meeting with the president Sunday.

He was ragged about the conversation.

He maintained that the president had been "very proper" and had not discussed the election campaign.

"In any case I wouldn't say if he had."

However, top party aides saw more than a hint of encouragement in the special breakfast and its gift.

The reaction may have been reflected in his Victoria speech, which strongly emphasized the need for friendly relations with the U.S.

"They are our friends," he said.

PEARSON CONFIDENT AFTER TOUR

Newfoundland Sweep Predicted

The Liberals will win all seven Newfoundland seats in Parliament June 18, national leader Lester B. Pearson predicted here Tuesday.

The Liberals won five of the seven in 1958.

But Mr. Pearson was full of confidence.

He appeared just as confident of a general victory, and especially pleased with the choice of candidates.

Their average age is just under 40, he said, indicating a youthful resurgence of power.

Mr. Pearson made a special point of telling his Victoria audience he is "100 per cent behind" local candidate Foster satisfaction in some Liberal circles that Mr. Isherwood, a lawyer from Ishe, had "stolen" the Victoria nomination from the expected candidate, Gen. Charles Foulkes.

Mr. Isherwood and Esqui-malt-Saanich candidate David Goss toured the crowd of 500 at Central Junior High School.

Also introduced was the Liberal candidate for Nanaimo, George Saywell.

More Gov't Power On U.S. Strikes?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential advisory panel has recommended giving government more power to deal with national emergency labor strikes.

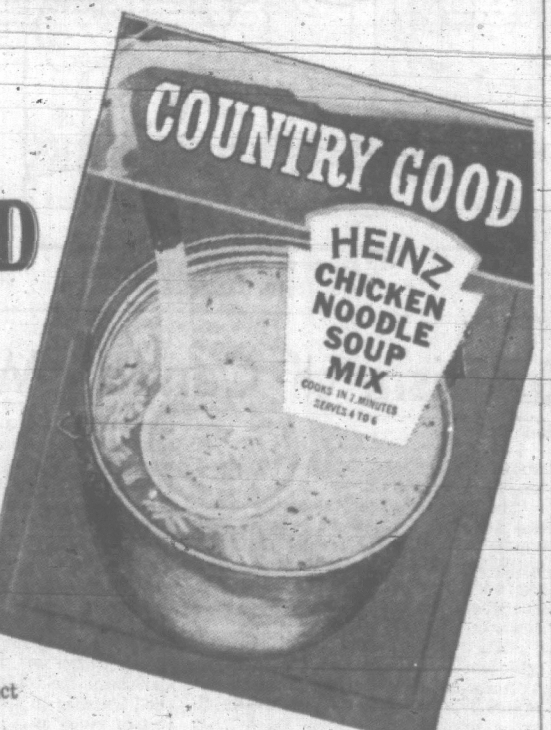

For one thing, the president would have the authority to halt such strikes for an 80-day cooling-off period without issuing court injunctions. Fact-finding groups appointed by the president would be empowered to suggest settlements.

These were the major recommendations in a report handed President Kennedy Tuesday night by his labor-management advisers. If enacted by Congress they would upset provisions of the 15-year-old Taft-Hartley Law.

Kennedy, calling the findings "highly meaningful and significant," congratulated the 21-man committee and promised to give the proposals serious consideration in drafting his own recommendations for Congress.

The Rich Men's Club

LAST DECEMBER MR. ALVIN Hamilton, Canadian minister of agriculture and practical politics, arrived in Victoria to give us the real truth about the European Common Market.

It was, he said, only "a rich men's club" whose members "took in one another's washing." Europe being only a super-laundromat for purely local use, we need not expect it to accept many imports from Canada. And it followed that if Britain joined the Common Market, Canada's exports would be further damaged.

The latest figures show that either Mr. Hamilton didn't know the truth or was distorting it.

According to Mr. Ernest Waengler, the reliable European correspondent of The Financial Post, trade among the six member nations of the Common Market has increased by 73 per cent during the first four years of their association to a total of about $12 billions annually.

At the same time trade between the Common Market and outside countries increased by 28 per cent to some $20 billions. "No other major industrial country," says Mr.

Waengler, "has had a comparable trade increase with the outside world."

The club which so alarms the Canadian government evidently is rich but by no means exclusive. The laundry takes a washing from anywhere, including Canada. For as Mr. Waengler adds: "Canada, one of the countries most worried about the effects of European integration, increased its sales to the European Economic Community by 39 per cent in 1960 and by an estimated 17 per cent in 1961."

All this was foreseen by some-what abler Canadian economists than Mr. Hamilton. Europe is bound to increase its imports from the outside world as it grows richer by liquidating the trade barriers between the Common Market members. We are watching in Europe the rapid creation of the world's second largest market which may soon be the largest of all.

There lies Canada's chance to increase its exports, among them the products of British Columbia. But we cannot make the best of this chance if the Canadian government continues to fear the growth of Europe instead of welcoming it.

Question of Campaign Funds

AS THE VARIOUS PARTIES of Canada embark on their election campaigns, once more an over-riding consideration of candidates and organizations is the problem of financing their appeals to the voters.

Several reforms have been suggested in recent months in this country. The Quebec Liberals, for instance, have proposed use of public funds to provide fixed amounts for serious candidates.

Federal Liberals have drafted a similar plan. Under it, serious candidates would be allowed to spend a certain amount of money and would receive that amount from the public treasury.

The CCF-NDP position defined by Mr. Robert Strachan would require public disclosure of all election expenses, but would not limit them.

From the United States comes a radically different suggestion. The American plan would encourage individuals to contribute to party funds and would make the gesture worthwhile by permitting the donor to claim the same type of tax exemption allowed to contributors to other accepted funds, such as the Salvation Army or the Red Cross.

A nine-member bipartisan commission in the United States has recommended the tax concession plan and party leaders, including the President, have given it their blessings.

Proponents believe that the scheme would make their country's parties more unified, more coherent, and more disciplined. On the other hand, they argue that provision of such funds through national party organizations, would free candidates from captivity to a few rich contributors in their own constituencies. The assumption here is that the public could give support to the principles of a party in tangible form and that widespread donations from individuals would tend to offset big interest gifts made "in intelligent anticipation of favors to come," as someone has phrased it.

Students of American political reform have given the central theme serious attention. As Prof. Stephen K. Bailey sees it: "If the national party were able to help finance even a small proportion of a congressman's campaign, and thus reduce his dependency on local money, he might feel freer to weigh short-term local against long-term national interests."

As has been pointed out before in these columns, the big campaign contributions to Canadian political parties are usually paid in the end by the public. That becomes the case when contributors receive reciprocal favors from a government in power for the financial help it was given at election time.

The American plan, which carries with it an understanding that contributions by individuals would be "respectable" and open to public inspection, suggests a reduction in the quid pro quo philosophy of special interests paying a form of "insurance" for future concessions. Whether the plan would be workable in Canada—or the United States—or whether it would be any better than the Liberal proposal to finance campaigns from the public treasury, the debate in the United States proves one point. There, as here, present methods of raising war chests leave much to be desired and thoughtful people are convinced that there are more honest and equitable ways of giving financial support to the party of the individual's choice.

Parachutes for Generals

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORTS from Washington that the American Air Force is developing a new breed, including a few flying generals qualified to jump into battle along with army paratroopers.

We're waiting for some sad comedian on the night club circuit to make the obvious explanation: An American general never knows when he's going to be caught way out on the high limb of a John Birch. He has to know how to jump when congressmen start sawing it off.

at the least, delay the start of negotiations with the European Six, or, at the most, raise such a furor that the Macmillan government would have to cease all exploratory talks.

Of course the Commonwealth countries must be consulted. But the most efficient method to do this was through bilateral talks at which each country could put forward in detail its particular interests. This Mr. Macmillan was proposing to do by sending three of his cabinet ministers to the Commonwealth capitals.

Mr. Diefenbaker knew this—he had agreed to receive the Commonwealth relations secretary, Mr. Duncan Sandys—yet he had chosen to make his gratuitous reference to a round-table conference before the British prime minister had had the opportunity to make his plans public here.

In case any Englishmen remained in doubt about the Canadian attitude, Mr. George Drew, the high commissioner, immediately began making speeches to set them straight. British newspapers made much of his remark that he would not dream of telling other countries their business. But, in the words of the June 16 Times report of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Great Britain luncheon:

"An unusually high attendance of journalists felt that, in spite of the unused phrase (Common Market), it was

O TIME IN THY FLIGHT

Carried to Its Logical Conclusion

I WAS just taking a stroll around the block last night when I ran into Joe Donkes, a neighbor of some independence and initiative.

"Hi, Joe," I said. "Nice and light this evening, with the hour's daylight saving."

"Yes," he answered. "A fine Wednesday evening, to be sure."

"Uh, Tuesday, I think, Joe, isn't it?"

"That all depends," said Joe. "What time is it by your watch?"

"Eight o'clock."

"Yes. But it's really only seven, by the sun."

"True enough."

"And it's really only Tuesday, by the stars," said Joe. "But I've put my calendar ahead a day. For me it's Wednesday."

"But..."

"It's very simple," said Joe. "It should work the same for a day as for an hour. I'm on Daylight Saving Time, and for me it's eight o'clock Wednesday evening."

"Also," said Joe, "the second Wednesday in the month."

"Now wait a minute," I protested. "It's only May the first."

"For you, perhaps," said Joe. "But I'm on full Daylight Saving Time, remember. I'm not only an hour ahead, and a day ahead, I'm also a week ahead."

"Now listen, Joe," I said. "You can't mean that you..."

"By the second Wednesday of the month," Joe broke in. "I mean, of course, the second Wednesday of June."

"Now, Joe," I began. "Just..."

"For you," said Joe, "it's really 7 p.m. on Tuesday, May 1. For me it is 8 p.m. Wednesday, June 13."

"You're going to get into an awful mixup, Joe."

"I may add," he added imperturbably, "that I am also operating on the basis that it is 1963."

"Aw, Joe."

"If daylight saving is a good idea an hour at a time, why not a day, week, month and year at a time? Why not get the full benefit?"

"Hmmm. Maybe you've got something at that."

"I'm right into summer now while you're still in spring," said Joe. "Then while you're enduring a hot, dusty August, I'll be nicely into a cool September."

"Well..."

"While you are slogging through this difficult year, coping with the Common Market, and the Columbia power controversy and having to listen to an election campaign and sit out a nuclear test series, I am comfortably in 1963 and enjoying every minute of it. All those problems are behind me."

"But how..."

"It's easy, my friend. Time is relative anyway, isn't it? Actually it's only a mental state, because you know your self how sometimes it runs quickly and sometimes slowly, depending on how you're feeling or what you're doing."

"Well, yes..."

"So instead of letting it be haphazard, I've just taken control and made time what I want it to be. I'm running one year, one month, one week, one day and one hour ahead of standard time. And I must say it's very enjoyable."

"You know, Joe, I think you've got something there. Wonder if it is."

"Of course you can. All it takes is a little will power."

"By golly, I think I'll try it. Let's see now. I'll set myself for 8.15 p.m. Wednesday, June 13, 1963. Why, it's wonderful. I'm past all those Centennial crowds, and Mr. Diefenbaker's election speeches. And I don't have to go to the Seattle fair, it's all over... think of the money I've saved!"

"Now you're getting it," said Joe. "This is the best idea I've had this year—that is, next year. I think I'll copy-right it and sell it to the United Nations."

Architectural Inelegance?

Calgary, Alberta

THE most prominent landmark of the Seattle World's Fair, which opened last weekend, is an architectural inelegance called the Space Needle.

The Needle's designers say the structure is supposed to symbolize the advent of the space age, which, by the way, is the theme of the whole fair.

The Space tower is 600 feet high. It has a restaurant atop that revolves once every hour. There is also a look-out and circular promenade. Transparent elevators whisk passengers to the restaurant and observation deck. As if all this modernity wasn't enough, the builders have topped the whole works with a 46-foot stream of flame produced from natural gas.

Despite the efficiency and amenities of the Needle's internal construction, its external appearance leaves something to be desired. It is, to us, a triumph in sluggish design, a lethargic appearing symbol for anything—especially the space age.

It's been said this top-heavy blasphemy against architectural beauty looks like an Eiffel Tower skewering a brilliant red pizza. Could be. But better still, with that jet of fire shooting from the top maybe the whole thing is more reminiscent of an Eiffel Tower with a crepe suzette popped atop.

Bible in School

In B.C. public schools the day begins with the Lord's Prayer and a reading from the Holy Bible. Any true Christian would be appalled at the manner in which the prayer is spoken; most students mumble through it with no religious feeling and the prayer becomes a parody of its own deep meaning.

The reading of only Christian works fosters the impression that Christianity is the only true religion. A non-Christian should not be requested to take part in an alien rite. In line with the recommendation of the Vancouver Humanist Association to the royal commission on education, the Lord's Prayer and Bible reading in schools should be abolished.

But This Was Tepid Stuff: The Real Criticism of Canada Was Yet to Come

(Times London Bureau)

IN the past 10 months the Diefenbaker government's faltering image in Britain has collapsed. The wealth of British goodwill which had turned in three years to uncertainty and disappointment now became acute mistrust and, on occasion, active hostility.

The British government had known since the Commonwealth finance ministers' conference of September 1960, that Ottawa intended to defend its existing trading arrangements voraciously in the event of Britain seeking an accommodation with the European Common Market. That the British acknowledged, was its privilege; no less, indeed, could be expected of any democratically-elected government.

It was not until June, 1961, when Mr. Diefenbaker dropped, with studied casualness, his suggestion that a top level Commonwealth conference should be held to discuss any British move towards the Common Market, that the British—now comprehending Canadian tactics—began to get upset.

Mr. Diefenbaker, they assured, was deliberately trying to embarrass the British government. He was providing ammunition for the domestic opposition. No other interpretation, they felt, fitted the facts.

A commonwealth conference at this stage, all British newspapers except the Beaverbrook press agreed, could serve no constructive purpose. It could only, quite clear what Mr. Drew thought of the Common Market idea."

As Mr. Macmillan's three emissaries prepared for their Commonwealth consultations British newspapers reported that the most serious obstacle to an early announcement to begin negotiations with the Six was likely to be the attitude of Canada.

The reasons for this attitude, however, were described with an almost total lack of sympathy.

"It is not that Canadians have much to lose in their trade with Britain," wrote the economic editor of the Observer on July 2. "But with a weakened government, confused political situation and a serious business recession, there is thought to be every likelihood that any additional difficulty for Canadian trade caused by Britain's new European policy will be seized upon and magnified."

The Sandys Ottawa visit passed off as the British had expected: badly. "For three days," said the July 15 Daily Express, "Mr. Diefenbaker had been too busy to see him."

The Financial Times of July 17 had this to say to Mr. Diefenbaker: "Tough bargaining with Mr. Sandys and the Commonwealth will not help the position over much... It would be odd if an insistence on preserving Commonwealth preference as it is and intact would really help to solve Canada's long-term problems."

The prime minister, the article noted, was adopting a position in many ways similar to that of his chief Canadian critic, Mr. James Coyne. He was adhering to a policy which puts Canadian consideration first—and wider western ones nowhere."

But this was tepid stuff: the real criticism of Canada was yet to come. At Accra in September, all British newspapers reported, the Commonwealth finance ministers had been led by Mr. Fleming to issue a communique which amounted to an angry warning to the British government not to join Europe.

It took 30 days for the full significance of Accra to reach the British newspaper reader. Leading economic writers who had not made the journey to Ghana had to talk to British officials who had. In Vienna for the International Monetary Fund meeting the week after the Accra conference, the same writers ran into Mr. Fleming himself, who was only too glad to talk about Accra and nothing else.

The result appeared in the papers of Sept. 24, 1961. It was Canada's first Black Sunday in the British press.

The Accra communique represents, said Nigel Lawson in the Sunday Telegraph, "for the first time, a deliberate attempt by the Commonwealth to sabotage British entry altogether. At present this is the policy only of the Canadians, whose eloquent finance minister, Mr. Fleming, drafted the document. Mr. Fleming, a politico to his fingertips, is well aware of the value of appealing over the heads of the British government to the profound fund of Commonwealth sentiment that exists in this country."

"I do not think we want to be taken in by this. Over the past few years from the rejection of the proposed Anglo-Canadian free trade area to the threatened increase in the tariff on imported British motor cars, the Canadians have had a habit of seeing the Commonwealth relationship as a strictly one-sided affair. For all the talk there is precious little attempt by Canada to understand our own predicament."

Mr. Lawson wrote that during long conversations with the Canadian and Australian ministers he had found a difference in their attitudes.

"The Australians, at least for the time being, are not engaged in sabotage work. Rather they are making a constructive attempt to impress not only on us but also on the Commonwealth countries themselves the nature of the problems and the desirability of a solution."

Financial editor William Rees-Mogg of the Sunday Times took a similar "sabotage" line. But, he added, it was "tommyrot" to pretend that the communique had been "merely another piece of Canadian impudence from Fleming who drafted it and whom, indeed, nobody loves." The truth was that every single Commonwealth country was strongly—"though not necessarily rightly"—opposed to the British application to join Europe.

Like Mr. Lawson the Sunday Times editor attacked the Canadian one-sided outlook. "The idea," he wrote, "that Britain should be given the same freedom of entry to the Canadian market that Canada has to our market is not even a starter."

Similarly the economic editor of the Observer commented on "the utter and complete failure" of Commonwealth ministers "to provide any constructive alternative to Britain's trading dilemma other than joining the Common Market."

The final—and lasting—British impression of the Accra meeting was given in a Financial Times editorial Sept. 26. "The obvious political overtones of Mr. Fleming's harangues appear to have hardened the British attitudes generally towards bargaining with the Commonwealth. Whereas at one stage Commonwealth feelings were regarded very tenderly, they now tend to be viewed as examples of enlightened self-interest. In general, therefore, the effect of Accra on British morale seems to have been exaggerated."

As Our Readers See It

Red Herring?

The Victoria Times editorial of 21st April, "Mr. Bennett's Red Herring," was itself a red herring designed first to give the impression that the Liberal party supports the McNaughton plan for Columbia development, and secondly, to imply that neither the public nor Mr. Pearson was aware that the United States had agreed to accept the McNaughton plan but the B.C. Government had refused to go along with it, thus forcing the present second-best treaty.

I suggest that on both points the Times is misleading the public and the following newspaper quotes, including three from the Times itself, prove my point.

Times, Oct. 19, 1960, by Tom Gould, Times Ottawa Bureau: "B.C. Veto Blocked Full Development: B.C.'s outright refusal to allow construction of a series of diversion dams on the Kootenay River, known as the Dorr-Bull River-Luxor plan, blocked full development of the Columbia Basin."

Vancouver Province, Oct. 25, 1960: Justice Minister Fulton: "Federal negotiators had won agreement from the U.S. on abandonment of the proposed Libby dam and diversion of the Kootenay River into the Columbia—until provincial officials vetoed the plan, the justice minister continued."

"The B.C. government's action delayed the entire Columbia agreement and cost Canada a major share of the potential benefit from the international river hydro system, he said."

"When the province, as owner of the resources, killed the agreement, negotiations had to be re-opened and concessions made to the U.S. on the controversial Libby proposal, Mr. Fulton said."

Financial Post, Jan. 14, 1961: "The Ottawa position had been carefully discussed with B.C. beforehand. B.C. negotiators had agreed to the offer as it was put to the U.S."

During the sessions, the U.S. actually accepted the Canadian position. They agreed to Ottawa's favorite Dorr diversion.

Then, at sessions last February and May, the B.C. team switched its position in the very presence of the American negotiators. They said they didn't want dams on the Kootenay River in Canada.

This stand automatically ruled out the Dorr and Copper Creek diversion plans and handed the U.S. the Libby dam on a platter."

Times, Jan. 17, 1961: "But the British Columbia government gave in without a fight. It announced during the course of negotiations it would not allow construction of a series of dams on the Kootenay Valley."

Times, Jan. 30, 1962: "Liberals Would Permit Export." "His (Mr. Perrault's) plan would: develop only the Arrow and Duncan Lakes Dams on the Columbia after re-negotiating the treaty with the U.S." Mr. Perrault said "The Liberal Party has been traditionally opposed to the export of power, but there is evidence to support Premier Bennett's proposals to do it."

The New Democratic Party is the only party to consistently support the McNaughton plan. The B.C. Liberals are anti-McNaughton and they support the Social Credit sellout.

Times Editor Bruce Hutchison, in another Liberal-boosting article in the Christian Science Monitor of April 14, 1962, said "A Liberal government would attempt to revise the whole Columbia project on lines not yet indicated."

This is the true Liberal position. Provincially they are anti-McNaughton, but their federal leader lacks the courage to come out in the open like Ray Perrault and say so.

More Comfortable in Theory

A LONG time ago, when we were in Second Year College and had answers for about everything except the questions on examination papers, a few of us took an absorbing interest in such things as the survival of the fittest and the Malthusian theory of over-population.

Not that we'd studied Darwin to any extent, or read Malthus. Someone else had, though, and we accepted the predigested theories.

This was a relatively painless way of absorbing what we considered to be knowledge, and a nice, antiseptic approach to subjects that can be a bit messy if you handle them more scientifically.

Without even turning back your shirt cuffs, you can treat the implications of the survival of the fittest with the simple statement that the weak or adaptable are eliminated, the strong or adaptable survive.

Or you can take a nice abstract word, like subsistence, and explain Malthus by saying there will come a time when there is insufficient sustenance to support an increased population. Therefore the population will automatically reduce itself.

The academic approach makes it unnecessary to consider the matters in terms of agony, critical emaciation or blood.

My thoughts turned to that sophomore attitude the other night when I found myself a car-length and one-half behind a small accident. It wasn't a bad one. No blood was spilt, as far as I could see. And the victim, a very young boy, was released from hospital with nothing more serious than a badly bruised back, according to what I was told later.

The ingredients of the accident were too familiar. I had stopped on a red light at an intersection behind another car. When the light turned green, the car ahead drew away, quite slowly, and I followed. On the other side of the street was a pedestrian island and on the island three youngsters were talking to one another.

As the car ahead of me drew even with the island, one of the youngsters, looking neither right nor left, his back to the approaching car, dashed into the roadway intending to cross the street.

I didn't see the impact. The car ahead obscured my view. What I did see was a small boy darting from the curb into the car, or into its path, and bouncing onto the curb again—and a very unhappy, hurt and scared boy he was. The car was travelling so slowly it stopped almost at the point of impact.

By the time I had stopped also and climbed out, the driver had a consoling hand on the youngster, asking how badly he was hurt, and a crowd of people descended on the island like locusts.

I gave my name and phone number to the shaken woman in the car and told her to call me, or have her husband call me, if either needed a witness.

The small boy was a very lucky small boy, if you except the fact that he was hit. Under other circumstances—a little more speed by the driver, a little less speed in applying his brakes—this would have been tragedy. The youngster survived. I can only hope that the pain of his bruises makes him more careful in future when he leaves a curb and enters traffic.

I don't blame the boy because I don't know what was occupying his mind—so things do occupy small boys' minds to the exclusion of all other considerations.

But I began to wonder if our wonderful modern age hasn't tried to give Prof. Malthus an assist through the use of the automobile. And to wonder, also, if Mr. Darwin might not have applied his theory—either way. Do the fit survive, or are the survivors, merely by surviving, the fit?

It would be a nice academic proposition to debate, but being that close to an accident isn't conducive to academic discussion. You see a child lying on the curb, crying loudly in pain and fright. You see a driver and his wife showing concern for the small one, but so shaken they can hardly talk.

Mr. Darwin and Prof. Malthus seem a long distance away from the flesh and blood definition of certain theories they propounded.

'Peace Crusade' to Highlight NDP Campaign

By JOHN MATTERS

CALGARY (CP)—T. C. Douglas, national leader of the New Democratic party, said Tuesday a "peace crusade" will be the greatest single issue of the NDP's election campaign.

"Peace is too important to be left to generals, diplomats and merchants of death who fatten on the profits of war," he told 1,200 persons at a nominating convention here.

The problem of nuclear weapons had mushroomed into a Frankenstein and they had become a force which could destroy their creator.

"We now have all the deterrence we need," said Mr. Douglas. "The United States and Russia have nuclear weapons with an explosive force equal to 20 tons of TNT for every man, woman and child in the world."

The NDP would not allow nuclear weapons on Canadian soil and would turn Canada's military forces over to the United Nations as part of an international peace force.

Mr. Douglas received a standing ovation when he entered the hall, which was filled to capacity. Mr. Douglas flew here from Edmonton and was due to leave today for Saskatchewan.

Earlier, he told a press conference that strikes as a weapon in labor negotiations are obsolete. The times and issues had changed since strike votes were first used.

Mr. Douglas described as "ridiculous" censorship of crime comics and novels such as Lady Chatterley's Lover. The government had made Canadians "look silly" by some censorship practices.

HOME GARDEN

Fooling the Season Pays Off

Sweet corn may be a casualty of the late season in some gardens, for it may be several weeks before heavy clay soils can be worked and be warmed sufficiently to germinate the seed.

But there is a way to fool the season. By using a similar method to the raising of tomato plants, we can have young corn plants ready to put out by the end of May instead of putting in seed at that time.

Fill a three-inch deep flat with veneer plant bands two-and-one-half inches square closely together, or place two-inch peat pots as close as possible. Use a good friable compost with a little coarse sand added and sow two corn in each.

The flat of plant bands or peat pots, whichever are used, will need to be in a fairly warm place to hasten germination—around 60 deg. F. Dry- ing of the soil must be prevented, but neither must it be too wet or the corn seed will rot.

When nearly all the corn seed has germinated, the flat can be moved to a place where the light is good—a basement or garage window, or preferably a coldframe.

Freedom from outdoor night temperatures for the first two weeks will aid in bringing the little corn plants along quickly, and during that period the weaker of the two in each container should be gently pulled out or cut off at the surface.

By about May 20, the flat of youngsters should be outdoors by day, and indoors or under coldframe glass only on extra chilly nights so that by the month end they will be acclimatized, or hardened-off, ready to plant in the garden without disturbance of the roots.

Foul Play Ruled Out In Dag Crash

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—A five-nation investigating commission reported Tuesday it found no evidence of foul play in the plane crash that killed UN secretary-general Dag Hammarskjöld and 15 others in Northern Rhodesia on Sept. 18, 1961.

The commission found nothing in its three-month inquiry to support theories that the crash resulted from sabotage, attack from ground or air, altimeter or other mechanical failure, pilot error, or incomplete information provided to the pilot.

Its report stated that none of those possible causes could be completely ruled out, but its conclusions strongly indicated the mystery never would be solved.

A Rhodesian official inquiry blamed a pilot error after eliminating other possible causes. Rhodesian tests indicated that the plane was carrying out a normal instrument approach procedure when it crashed.

Alberta Reaps Harvest

By RON MacDONALD
EDMONTON (CP) — The Alberta government's wallet is bulging again with money it received from a sale of oil and natural gas rights.
It's a common occurrence in the Alberta capital since the Leduc Discovery well rushed in the province's oil boom in 1947.
Forty-eight companies paid the government $6,223,796 in the sale reservations and leases Tuesday. It was the largest amount received this year and boosted to more than $17,500,000 the amount received from 1962 sales.
Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas company was the big buyer, paying $1,821,617 for four parcels, including $1,003,161 for a 46,080-acre reservation in the Cynthia provincial reserve, about 110 miles southwest of Edmonton.

Alberta has received more than $1,100,000,000 since 1947 from land rentals, oil production royalties and sale of land leases and drilling and prospecting rights. This has produced between one-third and one-half of the provincial revenue each year.

The province owns about 81 per cent of all mineral rights in Alberta.

BONUSES DECIDE SALE
Petroleum reservations usually are offered by public tender in a host of sales each year. Companies accompany their bids with cash bonuses and the biggest bonus usually wins the reservation.

Within 90 days the successful company must present the minerals department with a proposed development plan. While exploration continues to the department's satisfaction the reservation may be renewed for additional periods of six months.

When the reservation holder discovers encouraging evidence of oil he may apply for a lease. If the lease is granted, one-half the reservation is retained as a Crown reserve and later offered at public sales.

The government this year reduced the length of sales leases to 10 from 21 years and altered the renewable clause to include only those areas in the lease where it felt adequate drilling was being conducted.

This was done to give other companies an opportunity to develop areas where little work was being done.

Companies holding leases must begin drilling within a year of the effective date of the contract.

Clerk Admits Stealing Coins, Jewels

Owen P. P. Petticrew, about 50, a provincial government clerk, pleaded guilty in Saanich police court Tuesday to breaking and entering and theft at University School on April 20.

A similar charge against his 20-year-old son, James, was withdrawn by the Crown.

Police said Petticrew entered the apartment of Mrs. Emma Freid, assistant matron, in University School's Harvey House and stole two boxes containing coins, jewelry and costume jewelry valued at between $400 and $500.

Some of the valuables were found under the stairs of Petticrew's Fort Street apartment while the remainder were found in Beacon Hill Park.

Magistrate William Oster remanded him a week for probation report and sentence.

"Save-Your-Hair Day" Set For Thursday

FOR BALDING HEADS LIKE THESE, a "Save-Your-Hair Day" has been announced. As long as you have some hair, trichologist M. D. Harrison says you have an excellent chance to grow thicker hair by new methods of home treatment.

What Causes Baldness?

How many times have you heard men attempt to explain their loss of hair with one of these remarks?

"Oh, baldness runs in my family, so I just have to accept it." "Well, it's natural for a man to lose his hair as he gets along in years." "If you're going to be bald, you're going to be bald, and there's nothing you can do about it."

So many men have said such things for so many hundreds of years, these old ideas are still widely believed. But they are not supported by modern knowledge.

True, some few men do inherit a scalp structure that may predispose to early baldness. But any such tendency can be overcome by proper hair care.

As for the excuse of age, it is established now that men's hair naturally grows fastest in the years from 35 to 65. And certainly much can be done to stop hair loss, as the careful records kept by Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists prove.

"Actually, the two most common causes of baldness," says hair expert M. D. Harrison, "are neglect and mistreatment of the hair."

Don't Resign Yourself

"Most men just don't take care of their hair. Consequently, they don't get very far along in life without hair trouble. They become 'balding'... then just plain bald. And usually do nothing about it except perhaps experiment

CHECK YOURSELF HERE AND NOW!
Can't decide whether your hair needs expert attention? Generally, if you're concerned about your hair, you have good reason to be.
Check this list of signs that point to a hairless future:
If you've checked ONE of these conditions, you should see the Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists on "Save-Your-Hair Day."

U.S. Policy Called Naive

NEW YORK (AP)—Portuguese Premier Antonio Salazar, 74, said Sunday the United States follows a "naive" African policy which could lead to "multiplying Congos."

In an interview with Life magazine, senior editor Gene Farmer in the May 4 issue of the publication, the dictator criticized the United States for backing what he called "precipitate independencies."

As a result, he said, new nations are being born which are showing themselves as "incapable of solving real problems." Furthermore, said Salazar, such actions are "throwing the gates open to the influence of Communist ideas."

Scalp Specialist Here to Demonstrate New Home Treatment
Now is the time to carry out that long-delayed resolution to "do something about your hair."
For Thursday, May 3rd, is "Save-Your-Hair Day" in Victoria. The event is sponsored by Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists, largest organization of its kind in the Dominion. They have sent trichologist Fred N. Pue here to personally examine hair-worried men and women from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the Sussex Hotel.
The Harrison program for preventing baldness by home treatment is explained by director M. D. Harrison this way:
"Almost two million Canadian men are already bald or soon will be. How many women are bald, no one can estimate. Certainly all of these men and women regret their condition."
Can Prevent Baldness
"The shocking truth is that most of these bald people need not have lost their hair. Although baldness can not be 'cured,' it can most certainly be prevented. Our Harrison trichologists have developed methods of self-administered home treatment that are successful 95% of the time."
This dynamic young hair expert, whose main office is in Vancouver, has personally worked on the hair problems of thousands of men and women for 17 years. But he still can't understand why almost everybody postpones getting specialized help for their hair.

Don't Put It Off
"Your hair is in better condition today than it will be next month or even next week. That's why we urge you to see the Harrison trichologist before further damage is done. Find out Thursday about our new home treatment methods for saving your hair."
"Then you won't wake up a few years from now to find yourself bald—and painfully aware that you need not have been."

M. D. Harrison, sponsor of "Save-Your-Hair Day," has worked with hair-worried men and women for 17 years.

Here's how to get your free scalp examination on "Save-Your-Hair Day":
Call at the Sussex Hotel on Thursday and ask for the suite number of trichologist Fred N. Pue of Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists. Any time between 1 and 8 p.m. He does not make appointments, so come in at your convenience.

Get The Facts

If your condition is hopeless, he'll tell you so frankly. He does not accept cases involving systemic or organic disease. Such cases should be treated by a physician.

Otherwise, he'll tell you what's wrong with your hair and scalp, what you can and should do about it, how little of your time and money will be required to put your scalp in condition to grow healthy hair again.

Free Examination

Harrison emphasized that his treatment is neither "mail-order" nor "cure-all." Different scalp conditions require different procedures. "For that reason," he said, "we do not ever recommend a treatment without first making a personal scalp examination."

"For the same reason, we have one of our experts re-check your hair and scalp condition at regular intervals."

TEE TOPICS

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Ron MacLeod would love, dearly, to try the tournament trail. For the moment, mark it down as being only a rumor, but someone submitted a report. Some Victoria Golf Club member (or members), it is being whispered, also would enjoy seeing the new Times Island Open champion stepping along the Gold Trail. The way I heard it, the interested party would be willing to sponsor MacLeod to the extent of $1,500. That would keep Ron on the Trail for about two months. "I haven't heard a thing," said MacLeod. "Sure, I'd love to go. That would be the greatest experience in the world."

Five Reasons He Has To Be Practical

Now admire the man for his honesty. "But I can't afford to spend MY money to go touring." He has five good reasons for being practical: Mrs. MacLeod and the four little Macs. The five-month period he spends as Jasper Park's professional supplies the necessities of life, and some comforts, to his favorite family. If a sponsor decides to step forward, there's certainly nothing to hold MacLeod back. What better time is there for him to go on tour than during the six-month period he normally spends in Victoria? He likes to keep active, but the winter employment situation in Victoria doesn't always afford him the chance to work steadily. His situation is made to order for anyone willing and able to sponsor a representative from Victoria on the tournament trail.

SHORT CHIPS: Now that the Times tournament is out of the way, successfully, for another season, it's time to look forward to the City Amateur and Centennial four-somes. The four-somes event, extremely popular, will be played at Colwood May 13. Players have been selected to represent their pairings and submit entries through the club secretaries. MacLeod and Bill Atsello of Vancouver won the event last year. Victoria junior championship, over 36 holes, is to be played at Oak Bay the same day.

English League Says Travel Ban to Stick

LONDON (CP)—The English Football League appears to have reaffirmed a ban on British soccer players joining Canadian clubs this summer. League secretary Alan Hardaker is reported to have sent a cable to "Canada Monday night" "regretting" that it is not considered possible to lift the ban. Hardaker's action followed a meeting late Monday of the league's management committee, at which the matter was discussed briefly. Hardaker could not be reached to confirm that a cable had been sent. The Federation of International Football Associations bars players moving from one club to another without transfer contracts. A plan to give players a "free transfer" to Canadian clubs and then transfer them back before the start of the British season was vetoed by the league. Canadian officials take a serious view of the ban. George Gross, secretary of the Eastern Canada Soccer League, and Brennard Harding, vice-president of the Toronto City club, flew to Britain last week to register a protest. They returned to Canada during the weekend.

Edward Fitkin, president of Toronto City, said today the ban imposed by the English League applies only to playing in regular league games. It does not apply to coaching. Toronto soccer fans, meanwhile, have fired off a barrage of telegrams, letters and telephone calls to officials in England and Italy, protesting the restrictions placed upon players. Many of the communications have gone to government officials, but the majority were directed to Franco Bertoldi, secretary of the Italian Soccer Federation and Alan Hardacre.

Plenty of Stars

TORONTO (CP)—Thanks to the Scottish and Irish soccer leagues, two entries in the Eastern Canada Professional Soccer League will have plenty of stars this season from the two leagues have refused to follow the lead of the English League in refusing to let their players play in Canada in the off-season.

How much does it really cost to see the World's Fair?

Naturally, as with any event of such size and significance, there have been some rumors reported about the Seattle World's Fair. Most of the rumors involve prices — prices at the Fair, the price and availability of housing, parking prices and Seattle prices in general. This message is published to set the record straight and to tell you exactly what to expect when you come to Seattle.

Night club performances on fabulous Show Street will actually cost less than if you saw them in New York or Chicago. Tickets for performing arts events (plays, concerts, ballets, etc.) will also cost you less. (And by the way, the price of the ticket is all you need to pay; it is not necessary to pay admission to the Fairgrounds to attend any performance given in the Fair's Opera House, Playhouse or Arena.)

PARKING
A great deal has been done to make it easy for the out-of-town visitor to get to the Fair. Special signs have been installed on all major arterials indicating where Fair parking is available. Traffic spotters are stationed in helicopters and atop the Space Needle to report traffic and parking conditions to the police who direct Fair visitors. Seattle radio stations broadcast regular up-to-the-minute reports on traffic and parking.

Parking in the Fair site area is 25¢ per half hour, with a maximum of $2.00 for six hours. At the Interbay Parking Center and at the special parking area on Seattle's mammoth new double-decked Freeway Bridge, the rates are $1.00 a day. Fast bus service (22½¢ a person) will connect these lots to the Fair. In addition, there are scores of other parking facilities all over the city. Most of these are connected to the Fairgrounds by regular Seattle Transit service... 21 different bus lines go to the Fair. Or, if you wish, you can park downtown and experience the thrill of a ride to the Fair via the world's first high-speed monorail. (Fares: adult round trip, 75¢; children, 50¢.)

WHAT ABOUT ACCOMMODATIONS?
For the past two years, Expo-Lodging Service, the official non-profit housing agency, has been carefully arranging accommodations. Today, the agency has enough rooms for over 40,000 visitors a night within an hour's drive from the Fair. Only about one third of all this available housing has been reserved. There's plenty of room — if you act now.

To make your reservations, all you need to do is write to Expo-Lodging, Seattle 9, Washington.

There is no charge for the reservation service. Fair accommodations include hotel and motel rooms, apartments (converted to motels for the Fair), rooms in private homes, trailer homes, trailer camps, camping areas, and dormitories for youth groups. Every room listed by Expo-Lodging has been inspected and approved. Rates have been set to assure you of clean, comfortable accommodations at reasonable cost.

Prices for rooms range from only a few dollars a night to the cost of the fanciest hotel suite in town. How much you pay depends on you. Rooms are available. It is advisable, however, to contact Expo-Lodging in advance, tell them what type of housing you want and the price you wish to pay. Your reservations will be made and confirmed within a few days.

WHAT ABOUT PRICES IN GENERAL?
To insure proper treatment for all visitors, thousands of businesses in Washington State have formed a Fair Practices Council. Its pledge: friendly, courteous service at normal prices. All members prominently display the Seal you see below. Look for it. You'll see it displayed nearly everywhere. It is your guarantee of good service and fair business practice.

As far as the people of Seattle are concerned, the Fair will be a success only if all of our visitors go home happy. You'll be a welcome guest in Seattle... and treated accordingly. We hope to see you soon.

EVEN FOR A MILLIONAIRE IT'S A PLEASANT HOBBY

LONDON (Reuters)—A millionaire who says his only hobby is playing the soccer pools Tuesday learned he won £38,462.

Charles Dornier, 46, self-made owner of a string of dairies and transport companies, normally bets £20 a week—more than the average Englishman's salary—but doubled his winning bet because it was the end of the season.

Dornier was at his house in suburban Woodford, where he lives with his wife and three children amid such luxuries as an indoor swimming pool and stereophonic loudspeakers in each room, when he got the news of the big win.

"How nice," he said.

Relax, Friends; They Haven't Skinned Rabbit

NEW YORK (UPI)—In case you are worrying whether they skinned any jackrabbit out of the major league baseball you can cease and desist today because things apparently are livelier than ever.

Some of the siege guns haven't really started to un-tilt yet. The Yankees, who haven't really started to un-tilt yet. The Yankees, who haven't really started to un-tilt yet.

That completely discounts the 30-odd home runs scored by the Yankees, who haven't really started to un-tilt yet.

The Yankees, who smacked a record 240 home runs last year, are right back at it again with 20 against 13 at this same point last season. The American League cannoned a record 1,534 in 1961 (against a low of 101 in 1907) and is marching on that infant standard with 137 crowd pleasers already compared with 124 at this stage of the festivities 12 months ago.

Football Star Learns Quickly

Roman Line Wins Trial; Ridan, Gaylord Favored

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)

—The probable starting field for Saturday's $125,000-added Kentucky Derby has swelled to at least 16, but Sir Gaylord and Ridan remain firm choices to make a two-horse race of the classic for three-year-olds at Churchill Downs.

Out of Tuesday's so-so Derby Trial came three fairly definite starters, in the words of their trainers, and one faint "maybe."

The fairly definite are T. A. Grissom's Roman Line, who won the mile trial by six lengths in 1:37 1-5 on a sloppy track, Sharp Count from the Reverie Knoll Farm, who was third, and Neil S. McCarthy's Royal Attack, the Santa Anita Derby winner, who ran a disappointing fourth.

WANTS FAST TRACK

There is one condition on Royal Attack's starting. Trainer Buddy Hirsch said the track must be fast in the 1 1/4-mile run. It would be Roman Line's third race in 10 days. He ran third back of Ridan and De-De in last Saturday's Blue Grass stakes at Keeneland.

The "maybe" came from Steve Di Mauri, who trains Mister Pitt for the Golden Triangle Stable. Mister Pitt showed a burst of early speed in the trial, then wound up last in the seven-horse field.

DERBY ON TV

Meantime, trainer Casey Hayes said the name of C. T. Chenery's great filly, Cicada, would be dropped into the entry box Thursday along with stablemate Sir Gaylord. Cicada also is eligible for Friday's $35,000-added Kentucky Oaks.

With 18 entries and 16 starters, the Derby will gross $163,400 with the winner picking up $120,900. Post time is set for 5:30 p.m. EDT. The event will be televised in Canada by the CBC.

O.C. CRICKET

LONDON (Reuters) — Results of Tuesday's cricket matches:

At Leeds: MCC beat Yorkshire by five wickets. Yorkshire 219 for 8 and 140; MCC 218 for 9 declared and 148 for 5.

At Taunton: Somerset beat Hampshire by eight wickets. Hampshire 244 for 7 declared and 14 for 2; Somerset 245 for 3 declared and 14 for 2.

At Cambridge: Cambridge University drew with Surrey. Surrey 147 and 221 (A. Parsons 220); Cambridge University 208 and 115 for 5.

At Derby: Derbyshire tied with Nottinghamshire in one-day match. Nottinghamshire 235 for 8 declared; Derbyshire 235 for 4 (W. Gales 125).

Sask. Premier to Review Medical Plan for Doctors

By SCOTT SCHILL

REGINA (CP) — Premier Woodrow Lloyd will outline his CCF government's plans for instituting a compulsory prepaid medical care plan to more than half the doctors in Saskatchewan Thursday.

The premier will address 550 of the province's 904 doctors at the opening session of a two-day meeting called by the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons to discuss the plan, opposed by the doctors.

To stage the meeting, almost all doctors' offices in the province will be closed. Enough doctors to provide emergency treatment will remain on duty.

College President, Dr. H. D. Dalgleish of Saskatoon said in an interview Tuesday night that information will be given doctors at the meeting. There will be discussions on the Medical Care Act, including several controversial amendments to it, adopted by the Saskatchewan legislature April 14.

The college's steering committee was scheduled to meet here today to approve an agenda, then announce whether all or part of the general meeting would be open.

Dr. Dalgleish said at least one part will be open — Premier Lloyd's address.

OBJECT TO CONTROL

The doctors' main objection to the plan is "government control." They maintain the seven-man medical care administrative commission can dictate to the Premier Lloyd and Health Minister W. G. Davies say the act and amendments to it do not "interfere with the way the physician diagnoses and treats his patient."

The government says the plan only provides guaranteed payments and income to physicians.

In initial objects to the plan, the doctors said they oppose state medicine and that there are more urgent health needs in the province — care of the aged, the mentally and chronically ill and the indigent.

The government, stating it does not believe the college will stop individual members of the profession from accepting payment for services through the medical care commission, says it will introduce the compulsory scheme July 1.

The original starting date was April 1 but it was set back for various reasons, mainly the doctors' refusal to discuss the Medical Care Act.

Dr. Dalgleish said after talks with the government broke off that doctors will continue to treat patients but will deal with them directly.

The government introduced controversial amendments which empower the commission to act as agent for all beneficiaries in making payment, setting rates of payment and in taking or fighting court action over medical bills.

If a beneficiary dropped out of this arrangement, the commission still would be able to pay his medical bills at the set rate but would not act as his agent in any dispute.

JOHN TURNER
... danced with Princess

Nominated By Liberals

MONTREAL (CP) — John Turner, a 32-year-old Montreal lawyer, was nominated Tuesday by the Liberals to contest the Montreal riding of St. Lawrence-St. George in the forthcoming federal election.

Mr. Turner, a nephew of former British Columbia lieutenant-governor Frank Ross, will fight for a seat now held by Egan Chambers, parliamentary secretary to Defence Minister Diefenbaker.

A Rhodes Scholar, Mr. Turner graduated from the University of British Columbia in 1945. In 1958, he became well-known as the favorite dancing partner of Princess Margaret during her Canadian tour.

Y.T. Has New Commissioner

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP) — Gordon R. Cameron, a rugged 40-year-old Maritimes native, today is commissioner of the 297,000-square mile Yukon Territory.

A former mayor of this northern city, Mr. Gordon is the third long-time resident of the Yukon to become commissioner. He succeeds F. H. Collins and was sworn into office Tuesday by Mr. Justice John Parker.

Joint Exercise

OTTAWA (CP) — A joint Canadian-United States military exercise involving 10,000 men will be held on the Alaska Highway next February, the army announced today.

INCREASED AID

Fleming Defends Deficits

TORONTO (CP) — Finance Minister Fleming defended his five successive budgetary deficits Tuesday night as entirely a result of increased federal aid to the provinces and municipalities.

"If the money had remained with the federal government, nearly $400,000,000 would have been aggregated," he said. "There would have been no deficit in our five years in office."

"We deliberately went into the red to assist the provinces and municipalities."

The finance minister said that this year Ottawa is lending the provinces 2½ times the $689,000,000 loaned by the Liberal government in 1956.

Speaking to a Progressive Conservative nominating convention, Mr. Fleming said the Liberals "want people to forget their own wretched record when they were in office."

R. Hardy Small was selected unanimously to contest Toronto Danforth riding, which he has held since 1953 for the Conservatives.

New Side Issues Introduced

VANCOUVER (CP)—Trial of B.C. Power Corporation's B.C. Electric court actions, delayed for months by pre-trial arguments over points of law, is under way.

It is expected to last at least two months.

But before it can proceed to detailed evidence, the corporation must defeat new side issues, introduced by provincial government counsel in an attempt to kill key corporation claims.

New motions to block trial of the case were introduced Tuesday as the trial opened before Chief Justice Sherwood Lett in B.C. Supreme Court.

If granted, they would limit the corporation's case to one of arguing validity of the takeover legislation and would restrict the argument on this point. They would knock out any evidence regarding compensation.

The motions were read in court Tuesday but argument was deferred until corporation counsel had made his opening summation.

The corporation, former parent company of the B.C. Electric Company Limited, which was expropriated by the provincial government last August, seeks a court declaration that the takeover legislation is invalid. Alternatively, it asks an increase in the compensation paid.

Douglas McK. Brown, counsel for the corporation, said Tuesday that the new motions by the attorney-general and the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority form another attempt to prevent the courts from adjudicating the facts of the case.

They would prevent introduction in court of evidence concerning the value of the assets of B.C. Electric, an evaluation which Mr. Brown told the court is essential to the entire corporation case, including its contention that the takeover legislation is ultra vires—beyond the powers of the provincial legislature.

Mr. Brown told the court that corporation assessors have had difficulty in obtaining all the documents and information necessary to complete their evaluation of B.C. Electric assets, although the courts ordered that these documents be made available.

The evaluation was required to support three corporation claims: 1. That compensation paid was inadequate; 2. That the province by paying too little for the B.C. Electric common shares and offering too much for the B.C. Power Corporation shares was trying indirectly to expropriate a federal company which it could not take over directly; and 3. That the takeover was illegal confiscation, not legitimate expropriation.

In a 3½-hour introductory summation Tuesday, Mr. Brown recalled the takeover of last August and subsequent legislation dealing with it.

The provincial government had called a special session of the legislature to pass legislation expropriating B.C. Electric. The law set at $111,000,000 the compensation paid for B.C. Electric common stock—all held by the corporation. It also offered an additional $68,000,000 for the corporation's remaining assets, which the corporation has valued at more than $11,000,000.

NEW LEGISLATION

This spring, after refusing the corporation permission to sue B.C. Electric for additional compensation and after the corporation had launched a suit and successfully contested several government moves to have it thrown out before it came to trial, new legislation was passed.

It changed the terms of the takeover, giving $171,000,000 as payment for the common shares and withdrawing the offer to purchase the remaining corporation assets. It also set up the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority under which B.C. Electric was merged with the B.C. Power Commission.

Mr. Brown said the corporation will argue that all of the legislation is invalid.

M. M. McFarlane, counsel for the attorney-general, introduced a motion to block presentation of evidence of the value of B.C. Electric assets and shares. He also asked the court to remove the corporation's claim that the takeover legislation is invalid because the province's expropriation was aimed at frustrating the international Columbia River treaty and therefore treading on federal fields.

C. W. Brazier, acting for B.C. Hydro, asked the court to strike out B.C. Electric as a defendant because through the merger legislation the company no longer exists as a corporate entity.

He also asked that the actions against B.C. Hydro be dismissed because the statute setting it up forbids court action against it without express consent of the government, which has been refused.

CHIROPRACTOR CHARGED WITH MURDER

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A chiropractor must stand trial on a murder charge in the death of an eight-year-old girl he admittedly treated for cancer.

A Superior Court judge Tuesday set June 15 as the trial date for Dr. Marvin Phillips, 35, of suburban Sherman Oaks.

Phillips is accused of persuading Mr. and Mrs. Herman Epping to take their daughter, Linda, from a medical centre where she was scheduled for surgery.

The prosecution contends he told them he would cure her of eye cancer for $500, plus costs of medication.

Linda died last Dec. 28, several months after Phillips started the treatment, allegedly an iodine-water solution and vitamins.

Lengthy 54-Day Session Prorogued in Manitoba

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba legislature was prorogued at 11:20 p.m. (PDT) Tuesday after an unusually long session that started Feb. 14.

The most controversial piece of legislation approved during the session, which extended into 54 sitting days, amended the Manitoba Labor Act to make unions legal entities and provide for government-supervised strike votes.

Both the official Liberal opposition and the New Democratic Party members opposed the legislation but it was approved by the 35 supporters of the Progressive Conservative government and the only Social Credit member of the 57-seat House.

The government undertook to submit a state case on the legal entity status to the Manitoba Court of Appeal for a ruling before putting it into force. The case will be designed to determine whether unions will be responsible for unordered acts of individual members.

Labor spokesmen opposed the legislation in hearings by a House committee, but support came from chambers of commerce and the Canadian Manufacturers Association.

The labor law amendments resulted from a judicial inquiry into a six-month strike at Brandon Packers Limited in 1960.

Premier Duff Roblin, who also is provincial treasurer, brought down a budget estimate for estimated revenues of $121,520,300 and expenditures of $121,264,000. He announced that provincial taxes on personal and corporation income will be cut in line with reductions promised in the last federal budget.

Mainly as an aid to movie theatres, the provincial amusement tax will be reduced from 10 to five per cent.

The legislature approved establishment of a commission to review the operations of the metropolitan government of Greater Winnipeg and a commission to run the Manitoba Hospital Services plan.

Laws requiring clear specifications of interest rates and carrying charges on instalment purchases and certificates of worthiness of sales of used cars also were passed.

BUT THERE'LL BE CAN-CAN DANCERS

'Star and Garter' Runs Dry for Big Party

An old-time saloon to be named the "Star and Garter" is being erected at Cordova Bay for an old-time birthday party Saanich is throwing next Tuesday for Victoria's centenary.

But Saanich officials, who are organizing the festivities, said the building will be a saloon in name only as all drinks will be "dry".

However, they added, to make up for the lack of liquid spirits, can-can dancers and entertainers will perform in the make-believe saloon which has been named after a tavern which existed in 1861 on Government Street.

Other types of entertainment to be held at the party at Mattie's Cordova Bay farm will be a tug-of-war contest to be staged between six teams.

The teams will represent the navy, army, Saanich, Oak Bay, Esquimalt and the city.

There also will be lots of dancing. Under the direction of Adeline Duncan dancers will perform Scottish flings, and members of the Florence Church School of Dancing will perform.

The Kinsmen Club will hold

hole-in-one and gold claim-staking contests. The proceeds will go towards charitable causes.

Festivities will begin shortly after 8 p.m. when Lieutenant Governor George Pearkes arrives by car at Cordova Bay School where he will be met by Reeve Stanley Murphy and Mrs. Murphy.

Mr. Pearkes will then get in a horse-drawn vehicle, and with an escort of outriders will be taken to the party grounds.

The opening ceremonies will begin at 8.30 p.m. when Bishop Rankin of the Church of Our Lord dedicates a 100-foot long birthday cake illuminated by 100 candles.

Mr. Pearkes will cut the cake after a navy pipe band "pipes" a broad sword for the cutting ceremony.

Festival officials said Mrs. Ethel Moore of Cordova Bay, who is 78, has been named "centennial mother" for the party.

Five generations of Mrs. Moore's family have been living in the Cordova Bay area and her uncle was the first white male born in Victoria in 1851.

Zoning Plan 'Setup' For Province

Report Asked By Committee

Strong opposition to proposed zoning of the Legislative Precinct was voiced by several aldermen today.

Public works committee was told the zoning, limiting property owners to their existing privileges, would deflate values in the area bounded by Belleville, Douglas, Michigan and Oswego.

"Legally we may be able to do this but morally it's wrong unless the property owners are compensated," said Ald. M. J. Griffin.

"In effect we are setting this up so that the government can eventually buy this land cheap."

Committee ordered full reports from all department heads for analysis of all ramifications.

Greater Victoria municipalities will be asked to pool their resources for a single 1967 federal centennial project, rather than developing four small projects.

Works committee recommended that intermunicipal committee be asked to consider desirability of a joint area project using about $500,000 in federal-provincial-civic grants so that the search for a suitable project could begin.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgell strongly urged development of the Gorge waterway as the centennial project but Ald. M. J. Griffin said all possibilities should be considered.

Mayor R. B. Wilson said one suggestion has been for a fine arts building at the Gordon Head campus.

Committee recommended approval for a proposed Kiwanis Club plan to erect a tent on a parking lot at View and Douglas June 8 and 9 for selling pancakes during centennial celebrations.

Three Admit Burglary Of Sooke Store

Six persons appeared in Sooke RCMP court Tuesday in connection with the theft of $700 worth of goods from Gibson's Shopping Centre, Sooke, on April 10.

Robert Turnbull, 18, Gerald Haldane, 18, and Richard William Heimbecker, 16, pleaded guilty to charges of breaking and entering and theft.

They admitted removing a panel of glass to enter the building and to stealing three transistor radios, a record player, 10 cartons of cigarettes and a quantity of clothing.

Magistrate Eugene Murphy remanded them a week for sentence.

Another youth, Raymond Peter Sweeney, was remanded for plea on charges of breaking and entering and possession of stolen goods.

Stefano Croce, Sooke, pleaded guilty to possession of stolen goods and was remanded a week for sentence. Police said he was passing the store at the time of the robbery on his way to work and took some of the stolen clothing piled up outside.

Kenneth Wilman of Glen Lake admitted possession of one of the stolen radios and was also remanded a week for sentence.

CITY ENGINEER KEEN ON PROPOSAL

Charter Rights Asked for Sport Fishing

Visions of a charter sport fishing fleet operating out of the Inner Harbor as a major tourist attraction filled city council public works committee discussion today.

They were triggered by an application from G. F. Harley, 620 Seaford, for permission to solicit tourist business from the city floats for short and long charters of his fishing boat.

The whole subject was referred to the city

REGISTRATION REQUIRED FOR GARDEN TOURS

People planning to take bus tours to private gardens opened during Victoria's three-day Spring Garden Festival, which starts Thursday, must register at festival headquarters, 906 Government, officials said today.

Registration may be made by telephoning EV 5-9004 during the day. The buses will leave the C&C depot for the gardens at 1 p.m., returning at 5 p.m.

A total of 16 private gardens are included in the bus tours. In addition, 15 other gardens have been opened to the public, but visitors to these must provide their own transportation.

Board Backs Hillcrest In IWA Fight

Only a court's decision can determine who is right in a dispute between a group of Duncan woodworkers and Hillcrest Lumber Co., union local president Weldon Jubenville said today.

His statement followed a Labor Relations Board decision that orders members of International Woodworkers of America Local 1-80 to "cease and desist" interfering with the company.

A separate order received by the lumber company simultaneously authorizes prosecution of Mr. Jubenville on four counts of violating the Labor Relations Act.

Mr. Jubenville said he would consult legal counsel this afternoon on both orders to determine his own and the union's position.

BUS WITHDRAWN

Seventy loggers of the local, who were employed by Hillcrest at Mesachie Lake, have not worked since Jan. 2, when the firm withdrew—as previously announced—its employee bus service from Duncan, a distance of 20 miles.

The union has maintained from the start that the loggers were not striking. They showed up daily at the bus stop since the bus stopped running.

Peter Stone, a director of the company, said today Hillcrest had applied to the Labor Relations Board for a ruling against the IWA's Hillcrest members "in that they had done certain acts prohibited by the Labor Relations Act."

Members are ordered to stop supporting, encouraging and condoning interference with Hillcrest operations.

Proceedings against Mr. Jubenville would charge him with violation of the act and breaking the collective agreement with Hillcrest.

LITTLE DELICATE

"I'm not at liberty to say just now what we are going to do," Mr. Stone said. "It is a little delicate for us to say whether legal proceedings are planned."

Each of the 70 idle men was sent a copy of the Labor Relations Board order Tuesday, and Mr. Stone said this was hoped to persuade them to return to work.

The company has threatened to cancel seniority of the men. It claims a June shutdown may be necessary due to reduced log output from the Mesachie Lake operation.

Esquimalt Men For New Ships

450 Will Switch To Atlantic Coast

Esquimalt naval personnel will man the two newest ships in the RCN during their first 10 months in commission on the east coast.

About 450 officers and men will be transferred from the Pacific to Atlantic Commands for this period, it was learned today.

Ships involved are the destroyer escorts Mackenzie and Saskatchewan, now nearing completion, Mackenzie at Montreal and Saskatchewan at Yarrow's Ltd., Esquimalt.

The bulk of the personnel will be drawn from the Pacific Command destroyers Assiniboine and St. Laurent, both of which will pay off this year for extensive modernization, including the installation of a helicopter landing deck and variable depth sonar.

Reason for the transfer of officers and men is that the west coast, with two of its seven destroyers withdrawn from the fleet, has a surplus of highly-skilled trades specialists.

The west coast will also man the Assiniboine and St. Laurent when they return to the fleet.

Assiniboine pays off in June, St. Laurent in September. Some specialists in the electrical and engineering branches will proceed east shortly, to stand by the Mackenzie prior to commissioning in October.

Saskatchewan is scheduled to commission early in 1963.

It is possible, but not yet definite, that Mackenzie and Saskatchewan may be transferred to this coast, and Assiniboine and St. Laurent join the Atlantic Command after modernization.

Woman Driver Faces Charge Of Negligence

A woman alleged to have been the driver of one of two cars involved in a fatal traffic accident at Fairfield and Foul Bay April 19 has been charged with criminally negligent driving.

Mrs. Molly Carroll, 7111 Cedar Hill Cross Road, appeared briefly in city police court today when the charge was read.

The Crown accuses her of criminal negligence in the operation of a motor vehicle causing the death of 66-year-old Mrs. Blossom Smith.

At the time of the accident Mrs. Smith was a passenger in a car driven by her husband. Eyewitnesses said the impact threw her out of the car to the pavement.

OFF ASSINIBOINE

The second car contained Mrs. Carroll, her husband, AB Raymond Carroll, and friend AB Morris Sherman, both of HMCS Assiniboine, and her five-year-old daughter.

Mrs. Carroll is free on bail. At the request of defence counsel George Gregory, Magistrate William Oster adjourned the hearing to May 15 to set a day for trial.

BUDGET BUZZ

For Want Of a Nail The Shoe...

By JOHN MIKA

Aldermen Tuesday may have rewritten the old rhyme beginning "for want of a nail the shoe was lost..."

New version at the council budget session was "cut the $400."

They're prepared to spend almost $750,000 for a police system mainly intended to catch criminals — and then gamble on losing convictions in order to save $400.

That's how much they saved by eliminating city prosecutor Angus Smith's request for purchasing the Western Canada Criminal Reports series — one of the sets of law books that comprise the tools used by a prosecutor in winning convictions.

Ironically, council readily approved a number of improvements to the shabby prosecutor's office costing about $1,000.

So, Mr. Smith will get a tape recorder, office furniture—including coat stand—and some paint over the peeling walls.

But he won't get the law books he requested.

Sailing Classroom for Cadets

Commencing busy season of under-way training for navy cadets this week is RCN's only commissioned sailing ship, HMCS Oriole. Fifty young officers from Royal Roads Canadian Services College are training in the yacht and three auxiliary vessels which make up the under-way training squadron. Auxiliary vessels are harbor craft adapted for practical training in navigation and communications. (RCN Photo.)

TOPICS OF THE DAY

League of Roses (Lanes and Yorks) will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. in Newstead Hall for entertainment and refreshments.

An RCAF Lancaster attracted attention over Victoria this morning when it circled the city several times. The "Lane" — which is getting to be a rare bird — was engaged in routine aerial mapping for the air force.

Winners in various sections of the monthly master point tournament conducted by the Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club were Ricki Nickell and Wilnot Browne-Cave, Gwen Brawn and Otto Leisment, and Lillian Goodwin and Phil Hagel and Eric Goodwin, Isabel Artlett.

The Bethel Choir of Vancouver will present a program from Mendelssohn's oratorio "Elijah" in St. Andrew's Hall, Courtney Street, next Sunday at 3.30 p.m.

Two young sailors were told by Magistrate William Oster in city police court today that they were "a bad influence on each other" and were advised not to see so much of each other.

Blair Folkard, HMCS New Glasgow, pleaded guilty last week to stealing a tire and rim from the trunk of a parked car and Thomas Booth, HMCS New Glasgow, admitted a possession of stolen property.

They each received suspended sentences and were placed on bond of $250 to be of good behavior for six months.

The 24,000-ton P & O Orient liner Chusan will be off Broochie Ledge Friday at 12 noon to pick up her pilot and official party.

Being more than 550 passengers from the Orient and Hawaii she will dock in Vancouver at 5 p.m. Friday.

Freight rates for 1963 are now being worked out at a closed meeting of about 85 shipping company representatives in the Empress Hotel. They are delegates to the 11th annual joint meeting of the Pacific Westbound Conference and the Far East Conference.

"This is the first meeting we have ever held in Victoria," said W. C. Galloway of San Francisco, who is chairman of the Pacific Westbound Conference.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Are you sure that Jordan River, on the west coast of Vancouver Island, as you recently put it in your column, is not instead called the River Jordan? I also don't think it was named after the Jordan River of the Holy Land, J.P.

A. Jordan River is correct; it appeared as such on the very earliest maps of Lopez de Haro. However, you are correct in saying that it was not named after the River Jordan of the Holy Land. It was named after one Alejandro Jordan who went to Nootka in 1790 as chaplain and remained there for sometime.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Make Mother a Real Queen On Her Very Special Day

By PENNY SAVER

With Mother's Day fast approaching (May 13) Penny suggests that the young people in the family begin thinking of what they're going to present to the "Queen" of the house hold on her day.

If you seem to come up with nothing but blanks, I have a few suggestions.

First, I suggest breakfast in bed. Any Mother would appreciate this treat. A word of warning though, be sure she gets a rest out of this and isn't bothered with questions like, "where's the bread," and "where's the milk."

With breakfast over, Mother will love to don one of the beautiful new duster housecoats I've seen. Made of cotton, in a choice of pale green, blue or pink, they feature true femininity with lace trim on the dainty Peter Pan collar and on the attractive pouch pockets.

A ribbon bow on each of the two front pockets adds an extra touch of elegance. It's gathered on a round yoke at the front that drops to a V at the back. For the price of only $3.98 in sizes 12 to 18, this duster is a real penny saver.

For evenings of lounging around the house, you'll have Mother's approval when she sees novelty TV slippers.

Featuring a ripple sole these slippers come in a choice of almost every color in the rainbow. They're made of marsh-mallow plastic with soft sponge insoles for added comfort.

Each pair is decorated with fur, plastic flowers, beads or fancy stitching. Coming in a clear plastic snap-shut case, slippers sell for 98 cents a pair.

Another novel gift item for Mother that may be considered good only for a laugh, but that are really becoming a fast seller on the lingerie market are "petti pants," a modern version of the pantaloons.

Made of nylon tricot and in white, they are above knee length. Each leg has a two-inch dainty lace ruffle.

Believe it or not, these are becoming the accepted undergarment for under full skirts. Selling for $1.77 a pair "petti pants" are in sizes small, medium and large.

Wondering where I shopped for these Mother's Day items? Call Penny, EV 2-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

You're Only Nine Days Away From Fine Figure

Summer, with its abbreviated, lightweight clothes and revealing swim suits, is only a skip and a hop away. Perhaps you are only nine days away from a youthful slim figure.

Just nine days away from new self-confidence and increased enjoyment of your clothes. That roll over the girdle spoils everything for us.

And just five or 10 pounds too much can cause it. You can lose five to 10 pounds if you follow my 9-Day Diet which I am bringing you in this column this week.

Think of this short period as your Spring Makeover as well as a quick reducer. It is surprising how much a regular beauty routine can do even in this short time. Make special skin care part of your spring redoing.

Our complexion has taken a buffeting from houses which were too hot and winter winds and cold weather. In winter, we lead more sedentary lives and eat richer food than we do in warmer seasons. Our complexion reflects all this.

If you have not cleansed your face correctly in the past, or if you have failed to apply eye cream at night although you needed it, or have forgotten about lubricating cream, banish this neglect for just nine days, anyway. During this period use a moisturizing cream or lotion and treat your skin to a couple of masks. You will be surprised by the difference it will make in your appearance.

Here are Thursday's menus: BREAKFAST — One half grapefruit, one thin dry piece of whole wheat toast, black coffee.

MID-MORNING — Glass of skimmed-milk or buttermilk. LUNCHEON — One poached egg, one thin dry piece of whole wheat toast, one-half cup broccoli, one glass skimmed milk.

DINNER — Two crisp raw carrots, baked fish (medium portion), one-half cup green peas, shredded lettuce salad, lemon dressing; fresh fruit cup (don't eat canned fruit).

If you failed to start yesterday and would like to have my 9-Day Reducing Diet in booklet form send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Overseas Trip

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Wormald left Victoria on Sunday to travel to Montreal, where they will embark in the S. Ibernia on Friday en route to a four months' holiday in Europe. Making their headquarters in England, at the home of Mr. Wormald's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. David Wormald, they will tour continental Europe before returning to their home on Pilot Street in late September.

Nurses Meet In Victoria

Councillors from 10 districts and delegates from 41 chapters will be among those attending the two-day annual meeting of the Registered Nurses' Association of British Columbia to be held in Holyrood House, May 10 and 11. Miss Ada George will preside. Hon. Eric Martin, provincial minister of health, will give greetings at opening session. Luncheon speaker, George Clutesi, will speak on "The West Coast Native Indian."

Ladies' Auxiliary, No. 12, Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans, Thursday, at 8 p.m., Williams Hall, 749 Broughton Street, Room 19.

The First Step Toward Faith

Isn't it hypocrisy to pray when you don't believe? A prominent minister says "No" in the May Reader's Digest. He tells how faith — like science — begins with experiment. "Try it," he says and explains why even if you feel like shaking your fist in God's face, talking to Him will give you added strength. Get your May Reader's Digest today — 37 enlightening, entertaining and absorbing articles of lasting interest.

Old Girls' Luncheon

Thirty-fourth annual reunion luncheon of St. Margaret's Old Girls' Association will be held at the school next Saturday at 12:30 noon. Guests will be received in the common room by the president, Mrs. W. G. Flott; the school principal, Mrs. D. W. Cobbett and the former principal of the school, Mrs. M. E. Godson, who is to be a special guest of honor.

Floral arrangements in reception rooms will be spring flowers in school colors, red and white, the same theme being carried out in the dining room which will be decorated in a Chinese motif with lamps, lanterns, fans and miniature umbrellas.

In charge of luncheon arrangements are Miss Dana

Thompson, vice-president; Mrs. R. R. Wilde, Mrs. H. Lauder Ramsay, Mrs. Kathleen Irving, Mrs. A. K. Love, Miss Sara Hughes and Miss Jennifer Lockyer.

Among luncheon guests will be Mrs. E. A. McGowan and Mrs. W. R. Thompson, representatives of the Parents' Auxiliary. A special afternoon attraction will be a hockey game between the old girls and present students.

Leaving Soon

Forty guests attended a luncheon in the King Arthur's Round Table Restaurant on Monday when Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Bishop were feted by fellow workers of Mr. Bishop from the provincial bureau of economics and statistics. The Bishops and their four children leave for Pakistan, shortly where Mr. Bishop will be on the staff of the International Labor Organization of the United Nations. He was presented with a clock and pen set. The couple were also honored at a cocktail party given by Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Knight in their Devon Road home. Invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Sturgeess, Mr. and Mrs. M. Glover, Mr. and Mrs. J. Meredith, Mr. and Mrs. H. Bassett, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Whelen, Mr. and Mrs. R. Fetherstonhough, Mr. and Mrs. B. Gilling, Mr. and Mrs. W. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. H. Thornton, Miss Betty Morris and Mr. J. T'Anson.

Surgeons Meet

About 20 Victoria surgeons and their wives will travel to Qualicum on Thursday to attend the annual meeting of the British Columbia Surgical Society to be held in the Qualicum Beach Inn, Friday and Saturday. Dr. Charles Gardner Child III, professor of surgery at University of Michigan, will be guest speaker. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Child. In charge of arrangements for delegates' wives are Mrs. Gordon H. Grant, wife of the president; Mrs. Hugh S. Ford, secretary's wife and Mrs. John A. Hopkins, wife of the program committee chairman.

Grandparents

Mrs. Thomas Pain, maternal grandmother of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Thompson, her paternal grandparents, travelled to Victoria from Calgary recently to attend the wedding of their grand-daughter, Miss Sharon Dale Thompson and Mr. John Stephen Mooney. Other out-of-town guests included Mrs. Thomas Logan, with Victoria and Geraldine, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Pain and Kerrie, Miss C. Martin and Mrs. R. Holmes all of Calgary; Mrs. M. Shaw and Mr. and Mrs. H. Gordon of North Surrey; Mrs. J. Struther, John and Deborah, Mr. and Mrs. S. Knight, Mr. and Mrs. J. Shirra, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Genest, all of Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Copping of Nanaimo and Mr. and Mrs. M. Melkie and Pat and Mrs. B. Trump and Penny from Kelowna.

Gifts in Basket

A food basket held gifts at a recent grocery shower held in the Rockland Avenue home of Mrs. V. Beswick and Mrs. S. Banfield. Shower was in honor of bride-elect Miss Jill Shepard. A miniature bride and groom entering a home and garden decorated the table. Vegetable corsages were presented to Miss Shepard, Mrs. E. V. Shepard, mother of the honor guest, and Mrs. F. Hopwood, mother of the groom-elect. Other guests were Mrs. J. Magee, Mrs. C. J. Collins, Mrs. H. Hancock, and the Misses Genevieve King, Marilyn Harmon, Winnie Reid, Jackie Shepard, Susan Hopwood, Paula Tottin and Marlene Woyle.

Open for Annual Tour of Homes

The house is just two months old but the solid front door of the stucco and stone home of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Nordal at 3525 Beach Drive is a real "old timer." It came from "Clovell," the Esquimalt home of the late Sir Frank Stillman Barnard and Lady Barnard, that was demolished last year.

The Nordal place is one of four Victoria homes that will be open for annual tour of homes, organized by the Women's Committee to the Victoria Art Gallery for Saturday, May 12, from 2 to 5 p.m.

Granite rocks off the property have been used by the couple for both exterior and interior of the house as well as the many terraces which provide them with comfortable outdoor living. All the work has been done by the proud owners.

As Mrs. Nordal explains: "We're do-it-yourself fiends and I guess it's my Scottish blood that makes me so fond of stone!"

Their love of paintings is seen in the pictures that brighten the walls. In the 40-foot-long living room a Monet masterpiece hangs over the fireplace. Lovers of antiques, the Nordals have filled their home with many fine pieces, outstanding of which are two large Sevres vases.

Flagstones of British Columbia slate bring a feeling of the outdoors in both the entrance hall and kitchen.

Emphasizing that their home is "built-for-comfort rather than fancy gimmicks," Mrs. Nordal stresses that all living quarters are ground level or above.

"We don't like living underground so our basement remains strictly a basement."

Both dining room and kitchen are panelled in mahogany with louvered doors in the kitchen lending an "old world" atmosphere.

The house is designed so that Mrs. Nordal is easily able to cope with all the housework and still have lots of time for her favorite hobby of gardening.

Other homes that will be on view are those of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Congdon, 2575 Queenswood Drive; Capt. and Mrs. Massey Gooden, 1029 Beach Drive and Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Widdup, 3455 Upper Terrace.

Wedding Vows in Prince George

Several Victorians were in Prince George recently to attend the wedding of Miss Sandra Doreen Hoff and John A. Whittaker. A former Victorian, Rev. E. N. Diespecker, officiated at the ceremony in St. Michael's and All Angels Church. Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Hoff of Prince George and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Whittaker of Victoria.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of nylon chiffon over taffeta with bouffant skirt rippling into a train. A sheared wedding band necklace enhanced the fitted bodice.

A dainty bow centred the back waistline and sleeves ended in tiny points. Tiny pearls enhanced the chapel veil of illusion net that misted from a coronet of iridescent sequins and pearls.

"Something old" was the bride's maternal grandmother's prayer book which was topped with a spray of pink roses. She wore pearl jewelry, gift of the groom.

Two sisters of the bride, Miss Shown Hoff, maid of honor and Miss Ingrid Hoff, junior bridesmaid, were gownned in white nylon sheer over taffeta, highlighted with lace bodices.

Bridal halos and pink and white colonial bouquets complemented their ensembles.

Leo Pigert was best man and ushers were Chris Hoff, Marcel Gauthier, Michael Yates and Master Milton Conn. Pink and white decor was used at The Shasta where a reception was held following the ceremony. Bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake. Supper was served, followed by dancing and musical entertainment.

Coral Italian knit dress, toning floral whimsie and corsage and lilac-toned coat were choice of the bride as a going-away outfit which was complemented with white accessories.

After a honeymoon at Harrison Hot Springs Hotel the newlyweds are now making their home in Victoria.

Wedding guests from Victoria were the groom's parents, Mrs. C. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Reg Hayward, Mrs. B. T. Derry, Miss Lorraine Essery, Mr. Leo Pigert and Mr. Michael Yates. Many guests were there from Vanderhoof, Fort St. James and Nukko Lake.

Came Rebekah Lodge, Thursday at 7.30 p.m., IOOF Hall, Douglas St. Visit of Colfax Rebekahs; De Molay Oak Bay Chapter to exemplify initiation ceremony; hat parade contest.

Billy, five years old, is one of many youngsters who will be helped by those who attend the annual linen shower and donation tea sponsored by the Ladies' Committee of the British Columbia Protestant Orphanage, and to be held on Thursday at the Home, 2691 Cook Street, from 2.30 to 4.30 p.m. The public may attend.

Mooney-Thompson Vows

Miss Sharon Dale Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Thompson, 1513 Athlone Drive was married recently to John Stephen Mooney, son of Mrs. J. M. Mooney and the late Mr. Mooney, 2450 Quadra Street. The wedding took place in St. Luke's Church with Rev. T. D. B. Ragg officiating. Spring flowers decorated the church and soloist was John Dunbar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor-length gown of white brocade with a V-neck line and lily point sleeves. She wore a single strand culture pearl necklace, gift of the groom. Her headpiece of seed pearls held a floor-length veil.

Mrs. Fred Latham was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Kathleen Mooney, sister of the groom, Miss Vickie Logil, cousin of the bride, and Miss Penny Trump. All wore short pale pink nylon over taffeta dresses and coronets of satin and flowers in tone. They carried bouquets of white carnations.

Fred Latham was best man and ushering guests to their pews were Douglas Coppin, Terry Tribe and Thomas Thompson. Reception was held in the church hall where a three-tier cake centred the bride's table, flanked with white candles and pink and white roses. Maurice Melkie proposed the toast.

For a honeymoon trip to Harrison Hot Springs, the bride donned a three-piece Louis Schrier suit in a cherry shade, with white accessories and a gardenia corsage. Following their honeymoon the couple will make their home at 1359 Simon Road.

Guest of honor was presented with a Sunbeam Mixette and white roses in corsage.

Present were the Misses Beverly Tocher, Sarjitt Dhillon, Norma Redfern, Margaret Smith, Donna Peck, Katie Brimblecombe, Hilary Ford, Sue Stoddart, Linda Smith, Carol Cleator, Dianne Smith, Joan Cooper, Judy Rutledge, Evelyn Wickert and Sharon Rogers.

Fellow workers at the Hudson's Bay Company surprised the bride-elect with a shower in the Hawks Avenue home of Mrs. R. Griffiths. She received many gifts and guests enjoyed an evening of games, followed by refreshments.

Guests included the bride-to-be's aunt, Mrs. G. Lott; Mrs. L. Scadding, Mrs. G. Akehurst, Mrs. I. Sluggitt, Mrs. W. Nordquist and the Misses Vidi Ovenden, Audrey Ireland, May Blackstock, Carol Deaton, Denise Poyntz and Beverly Scott.

DEAR ABBY

He Must Be an Ostrich!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: As a disinterested third party, your advice is needed. My brother's wife is running around and every one in our little town knows it but him. She uses all sorts of lame excuses to get out of the house "for an hour" and comes in at midnight with more lies. My brother works 12 hours a day trying to provide for her and their three children. She sleeps till noon and lets the children fend for themselves. The house is a mess. She dresses like a street-walker and her children look like war orphans. Would you advise me to give her enough rope to hang herself? Or should I tell my brother? We are decent people and everyone is talking.

"G": It's pretty hard for a man not to be aware that his wife dresses like a "street-walker" and his children look like "war orphans." If your brother really is having the wool pulled over his eyes — don't be sheepish. Tell him!

DEAR ABBY: You said, "Just because there's chrome on the dome doesn't mean there is no power under the hood." Will you please tell me how YOU know?

I KNOW
DEAR ABBY: Some of my best friends are mechanics.

DEAR ABBY: If a baby-sitter is asked to come to sit from 7 p.m. until midnight, what do you think about this situation? I arrived promptly at seven. The parents were nowhere near ready to leave the house. At eight, they left, saying, "Well, that's one hour less of your time—sorry." They came back at a quarter to one — exactly 45 minutes later than they promised — saying, "Sorry we're a few minutes late, ha ha." Then I got paid for four hours. What would YOU do?

OVERWORKED AND UNDERPAID.

DEAR O. AND U.: I would tell them they owed me for five hours and 45 minutes and no "ha ha" about it.

DEAR ABBY: I am in love with a nice fellow and he has asked me to marry him. I would like to have a big church wedding and wear a white gown and veil, and have a large reception. I had a child. A few in the family know about it. Should I tell my future husband about it? I gave the baby up for adoption. I was only 15 at the time and I am 19 now.

SECRET KEPT.
DEAR ABBY: Don't make a mockery of a large wedding with a gown and veil. And by all means, TELL your future husband.

NEWLY-BUILT NATURE MUSEUM at Thomas S. Francis Park was opened by Recreation and Conservation Minister Westwood Tuesday. Built by Victoria Natural History Society, it features display of plant life, insects and types of rocks found in 180-acre park on Munn Road. The woodland park maintained as a nature sanctuary is expected to become a major attraction for Victorians.

LOCAL BRIEFS

The Gordon Head Garden Club will meet on Monday at 8 p.m. in the Community Hall on Tyndall Avenue.

A. E. Richman, of Saanich parks department, will discuss "The Propagation and Care of Ornamental Shrubs."

Mayor R. B. Wilson on June 9 will unveil a plaque commemorating the vessel R. P. Rithet, built in Victoria in 1882 and named after a former mayor of the city.

Three of Mr. Rithet's grandchildren, James Genge, Mrs. Anson Firth, and Mrs. Frank Skillings, have presented the plaque to the Causeway's "parade of ships," a series of bronze tablets to be mounted along the embankment early in June to celebrate ships historically connected with Victoria.

Two RCN Pacific command destroyer escorts will carry out anti-submarine warfare exercises with the submarine HMCS Grilse as target in the Georgia Strait-Howe Sound area from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. next Monday.

Ships taking part will be HMCS Saguenay and Fraser.

A. R. D. Sandy Robertson of Victoria was elected district governor of the Toastmaster's International, District 21, at the annual convention at Prince George over the weekend.

Other Victorians elected to positions were Robert Baird, district education chairman, and Eric Colmer, governor of Area 1. Mr. Colmer also placed second in the speech contest.

The Monterey School Parent-Teacher Association will hold its Fun Fair in the school auditorium, Friday evening, at 6:30, with stalls for toys, books, home baking, groceries and plants.

City welfare administrator William Hooson on Monday endorsed a recommendation for establishment of a Greater Victoria co-ordinating committee on senior citizen housing.

The proposal was made by a Region Planning Board, which estimated 1,300 senior citizens needed low rental housing.

Mr. Hooson said he felt that the report, if anything, had underestimated the need for low-rent housing.

"There still are about 2,300 people drawing means test pensions in the city and this leads me to think their estimate is somewhat conservative," he said.

Strike Spreads

BILBAO, Spain (AP) — Strikes for higher wages in northern Spain appeared today to have spread to the government-controlled naval shipyards here. A labor source said the civil governor of Bilbao, Antonio Ibanez, ordered the city closed after some employees refused to work.

Kinsmen 89th Air Cadets will hold a car wash Friday evening from 6 to 9 at Sutcliffe's Service Station, Fort and Foul Bay Roads.

Safety awards were presented at a banquet and dance Saturday marking the 10th anniversary of the B.C. Forest Products plywood division.

Employees who had an accident-free record over that period were given sterling silver lapel buttons. About 600 people attended at the Esquimalt Sport Centre.

St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society will initiate new members at a meeting on Thursday evening at Holyrood House.

A demonstration of dancing by the Victoria Scottish Country Dance Club will be part of the program.

Victoria's Kiwanis-sponsored "gold" dollars are starting to turn up in the strangest places.

Entries have been thrown open for the International Centennial Hill Climb May 12 and 13 at Mount Douglas Park, and the sponsoring Victoria Motor Sports Club included a form with its bulletin.

On the form were the words: "You all come and we'll give each of you a GOLD DOLLAR, honest we will."

MAYOR EXCLUDED

Council Votes Itself Pay Increase of $500

A majority vote of city council Tuesday boosted aldermanic salaries by $500 to a total annual pay of $2,000.

It was a compromise reached after council defeated a motion which would have pushed aldermen's salaries up to $2,500 and boosted the mayor's salary from $6,000 to $10,000. Last increase in council pay was made in 1958 when $400 was added to the yearly $1,100 remuneration.

Subject was raised by Ald. Michael Griffin, reviving his motion of last December that council salaries be raised to the Municipal Act's permissive limits.

Main argument for the increase was that it would give more persons a chance to run for council.

'MONEY BARRIER'

The contention was that present policy effectively reserved aldermanic posts only for those who could afford to hurdle the "money barrier" of low council indemnities in return for considerable time away from normal work.

Mayor R. B. Wilson said he felt alderman's pay should be raised somewhat but he opposed any increase in his own salary.

"The mayor's salary is quite adequate and should stay as it is," he said. "After all, there is an element of public service in these jobs."

But he said aldermanic workloads have increased and their pay should be boosted by $500.

Several aldermen said they felt there should be no increase in money even though the workload had increased. They argued a realistic pay scale would only encourage "professional politicians" to run for office.

CAN'T AFFORD IT

However, Ald. Griffin and Ald. A. W. Toone argued present aldermanic salaries made it impossible for many younger men to serve on council because they could not afford the financial hardships.

Ald. Griffin pointed out that all present aldermen could afford to serve on council for inadequate remuneration but this did not apply to most hourly-paid workers and young executives.

"Let's look at it from their eyes," he said. "I speak for them."

Ald. Toone said the low financial compensation for public service was in fact an undemocratic barrier to most persons who would like to run for city council.

UNDEMOCRATIC

"If we restrict public service to only a few people in the community who can afford it—this is not democracy," he said.

In Grip
Of Europe

TORONTO (CP) — Prime Minister Macmillan said Tuesday night continental Europe possesses an "immense power" both for self-enrichment and fulfilling the world role of advanced communities.

In a televised address to the annual dinner of The Canadian Press, the British leader posed the question of whether Britain can "stand altogether aside" from the movement for European unity.

Are the interests of Europe and of the Commonwealth "capable of being complementary" or are they necessarily opposed, he asked.

"It is this question which now is leading to an important decision which our country must soon take."

While stressing the importance of Britain's decision, he added that "an equal responsibility" rests on the six continental members of the Common Market. "If they want us they will have to make the way easy for us," he said.

Britain's links with the older Commonwealth countries have "a special and solemn character" that nothing could or should be allowed to weaken, he added.

Mr. Macmillan dwelt in some detail on the historic considerations bearing on Britain's proposed entry into the European Common Market.

TRIED TO ESCAPE

"Every time we have tried to escape from the grip of Europe we have been drawn back," he said. "If things go wrong in Europe, we are immediately involved — and so, indeed, are you," he told his Canadian audience.

"But if things go right, there is in this community an immense power which can be mobilized not merely from the point of view of self-enrichment but from the point of view of fulfilling the role which advanced communities ought to play in the world."

To those who are anxious — "and naturally anxious" — about the outcome of negotiations between Britain and the six-member Common Market he put this question:

"How can Britain best serve the Commonwealth and through them the world?"

"Is it best for us to stand altogether aside from the movement for European unity? Or is it best for us to play our full part in this development?"

A heavy responsibility lay upon the British government to find a right solution.

"But I must add that an equal responsibility lies upon the representatives of the Six. For whatever may be the outcome, it must have a great effect for good or ill upon the future."

MUST PONDER MOVE

The world was a changing one, not static. "It is in this context that we all have to ponder long and deeply before deciding where our duty lies — our duty not just to ourselves but to the Commonwealth and to the whole free world."

Mr. Macmillan, who flew here from Ottawa Tuesday afternoon after concluding two days of talks with Prime Minister Diefenbaker, pleaded for understanding for new Commonwealth members who did not always seem to value "our cherished ideals and ways of political life" as much as the older members.

"It took many hundreds of years to reach our own stable, free and sophisticated pattern," he said. "All countries have their growing pains; these pass as maturity arrives."

"So if we have faith and will and energy the Commonwealth itself will soon show its true strength based upon the good principles in which we so fervently believe."

Mr. Macmillan predicted eventually the same individual pressures, desires and aspirations which led to freedom and independence for countries formerly under European influence will begin to operate in the Soviet bloc.

"But that is for the future. For the present we must recognize that this rigidly organized monolithic system of government is backed by great resources."

Imperialism and revolution combined had not threatened the world since Napoleon. Today, Russia was armed with "MONEY BARRIER" both these "formidable" weapons.

Mr. Macmillan also had a word to say about the United Nations.

"In its future strength lie many of the hopes and aspirations of men and women in every part of the world."

The UN was the only body from which a world order might one day develop.

"Surely it is the duty of the older and developed countries to work with and through it to help the newer nations to fulfill themselves," said the prime minister. "The world without it would be a darker and less hopeful place."

Escapee Acquitted Of Murder

By CANADIAN PRESS

VANCOUVER — An Assize Court jury took three hours Tuesday to acquit prison-escapee Douglas Ian Bevans of murder in the shotgun death of his buddy, Roderick Chief.

"I didn't know the gun was loaded but I hoped it was when I pulled the trigger," Bevans testified as he told the court how he fired the shot which cut Chief down as he came at him with a hunting knife.

Bevans was charged with the non-capital murder of Chief in a suburban Burnaby house Oct. 12, four days after the pair, along with three others, escaped from Calgary's Spy Hill jail.

Chief's body was found a month later in a crude, shallow grave in Burnaby bushland.

Taking the stand in his own defence, Bevans told the court that he had to shoot Chief to save his own life and that of Ronald Neergaard, another escapee.

Bevans said a drinking party was held in the house after the quintet arrived from Calgary. At one stage Chief went to the basement and returned with a sawed-off shotgun and a knife.

The accused said Chief became belligerent and accused Bevans and Neergaard of making plans to "ditch" him in the jail escape.

FAILS TO SHOW

VANCOUVER — Stefan Sorokin, spiritual leader of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobors, faces the prospect of having his libel suit against the Trail Times dismissed.

Sorokin failed to show Tuesday at Vancouver Courthouse for further examination for discovery under a court order. He was to have presented himself at 2:30 p.m. and was still not there at 3 p.m.

Sorokin, who launched the suit two years ago, faces arrest on a charge of conspiring to intimidate Parliament if he returns to B.C. from Uruguay.

HEAVY BAIL SET

VANCOUVER — Another $275,000 bail was set in connection with narcotics charges laid by RCMP recently following a major roundup of suspects.

Mr. Justice R. A. Wooton set bail for Ronald Hill at $100,000 and Alexander MacDonald $50,000. Bail of $25,000 each was set for Milan Orlovich, John Singh, Phillip Jackson, Norman Vickers, and May Townley. The Supreme Court judge refused to reduce the $50,000 bail already granted Michael Petroski.

SHARP PROTEST

VANCOUVER — Union members voiced sharp protests Tuesday night against a B.C. Medical Association offer to assist doctors leaving Saskatchewan because of the province's plan for state medicine.

Secretary Paddy Neale asked a meeting of the Vancouver and District Labor Council for authority to determine where the money is coming from to back up the offer.

AIR LINES BID

VANCOUVER — B.C. Air Lines Tuesday asked the air transport board for control of all scheduled air services from Vancouver to Comox and all coast and island points north.

The company's application would give it the Vancouver-Powell River-Comox-Campbell River-Port Hardy franchise, valued at $1,000,000 a year and now held jointly by B.C. Air Lines and Pacific Western Airlines.

PWA will appear at the board hearing today to oppose the bid.

B.C. Air Lines also asked for consolidation of its four class 3 licences covering the area from Port Hardy and Campbell River to the tip of the Queen Charlotte Islands.

Two Mill Hike Council's Aim

City council Friday will make an all-out drive to hold this year's potential tax increase to two mills.

Even that might disappear if aldermen decide to ask ratepayers to approve borrowing for a number of capital projects in the 1962 program.

Aldermen ground through a seven-hour session Tuesday, slicing almost one mill from the proposed 3.7-mill increase in the estimates, lower than expected because of added grants and reshuffling of capital grants to reduce the schools' appropriation.

They cut a total of $89,619 from proposed expenditure of $10,261,150 but also were forced to add $17,879 in various votes.

The budget session resumes Friday and council members hope they can slice off about another mill before deciding to stand pat there or borrow their way out of a mill-rate increase.

Among council-initiated additions to the budget were:

A $500 item to provide the city's garbage collectors with a blue-grey overall uniform;

Friday and Saturday, 8.30 a.m. to 11.30 p.m. Children 50c.

Seal, Matinee: 75c, Children 50c.

Tickets: Eaton's, Eagle Office, Centennial Office, Douglas at Yates, and Arena.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Very happy nowadays Debbie Reynolds tells friends that the bundle of joy she and Harry Karl are expecting will almost certainly be two bundles: twins.

DEBRA PAGE'S rich Chinese bridegroom doesn't want his little doll showing off her limbs, so he had her cancel all her personal appearances—costing him a goodly bit in his bankroll, in payoffs to clubs.

GENE BARRY should pack the Latin Quarter with females: he sings well, is personable and goodlooking and says things like: "The three questions girls ask now are: 'How much does he have? When will he get more? How soon will I get it?'"

JACK DEMPSEY, ringsiding at Barry's opening, got a big hand. I inquired about their friendship. Dempsey said, "Well, you see, the original 'Bat Masterson' predicted I would lose to Jesse Willard—and we never got along too well after that. But Gene and I've been friends for years."

BRAVO, BRAVO to the Andrews Sisters for twisting to "Pistol Packin' Mama" at the International! to Enzo Sturti's Persian Room smash (Plaza Hotel boss Neal Lang sent him champagne with a note "To my new son, Enzo Lang") to Rip Taylor's crying antics at the Latin Quarter.

EDDIE ARCADE says he's working harder now that he's retired. "Good thing I can ride," he says. "Some of these tracks I've got to visit" (working for American Tote) "can be reached only on a mule."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL... Perle Mesta's a great admirer of Ethel Merman who once portrayed her in "Call Me Madam"; Perle invited her to two Washington parties and said she'd meet her at the airport... Red Skelton offered Tina Robin co-star billing in a June 13 show at the Las Vegas Sands. But Tina's booked at Glenn McCarthy's Houston and vice-president.

DEMPSEY ringsiding

Cork Club—and McCarthy's not letting her out of it even with all her appeals... Jack Waldron introduced a speaker at the Lamb: "He combed his hair for 20 minutes, then forgot to bring it with him." Jack Benny asked Sally Ann Howes to work with him in Las Vegas in June, but she'll be in "Brigadoon" here... Charles Laughton quits the N.Y. Hospital for special surgery this week... Stan Freberg'll get a fat 60 Gs for doing the "Road to Hong Kong" radio and TV commercials... Guy Lombardo wants to sell his big L.I. waterfront estate, will hunt a smaller house... Grossinger ski pro Tony Kastner, who dated Kim Novak, is an auto crash victim... Geraldine Page and Rip Torn'll repeat their "Sweet Bird of Youth" roles in summer stock.

Quebec Newsman President of CP

TORONTO (CP)—A. F. Mercier of Quebec Le Soleil was elected president of The Canadian Press Tuesday. He succeeds John E. Motz of the Kitchener-Waterloo Record, president for the last two years. Mr. Motz was elected honorary president, Stuart Keate of the Victoria Times first vice president, and St. Clair Balfour of the Winnipeg Tribune second vice president.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions by adults to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngsters who ask the first question answered each day receive a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and the second question, then a Hammond Atlas of Ohio.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Jimmy Feller, age 11, of Cottage Grove, Ore., for his question:

Does Each Bird Always Sing the Same Song?

Some experts claim that the meadow lark has 28 different tunes. Others, who perhaps listen more closely, claim that he sings the same basic song with 28 or more different expressions. His basic tune sounds somewhat like Spring-is-here and he can use this lilting phrase with a variety of meanings which other meadowlarks understand. He can state a few things to birds of different species.

There are a few mimics in the bird world who can copy sounds and imitate a variety of calls of their own. These chatterboxes include the cowbird and the budy. The parrot of this group is the mockingbird who can mimic and also pour forth a repertoire of his own lyrical numbers. But most birds seem to learn a note or a phrase from their parents and use it with different expressions as a complete language.

In the main, a bird aims to communicate only with his own species. But there is some evidence of a universal bird language. There is a cry of alarm to which many species react: A robin who spots a hawk sounds this SOS and maybe 30 different birds and their families fly for cover.

The cry of a hungry young bird is also understood outside the family. When a young cowbird utters this distress call, it reaches the heart of a mother cardinal and she gives him the food intended for her own children. All the experts agree that birds use their voices to communicate with each other and the most thoughtful experts agree that they sometimes sing just for joy. A bird chorus with various singers answering each other certainly sounds like a glee club and an expression of joy may well be part of that universal bird language.

Male Birds Songsters

The male birds are the songsters and their language varies with the seasons. Most of them return from winter migration ahead of the females. Each male scouts for a home site and territory to provide his family with groceries. Then he sings loud and clear to stake his claim to his domain. Other birds of his species understand from his expression that they will have to fight him if they trespass on his territory.

This is important because a swallow, say, does not want other swallows eating the flies and moths intended for his family, though he does not mind sharing his domain with a family of seed-eating morning doves. When the females return, the flurry of courtship begins. The male sings his same tune, but now it is a love song. Later, he will use the same call with still other expressions to instruct the young birds.

It is a challenge to identify different birds from their songs and if you are a good mimic you can sometimes join in the conversation. But birds do not use our musical scales and some can be copied only with recordings. When the records are played back, they attract answers from the birds and sometimes start up a full scale chorus in the tree tops.

Andy sends a Hammond's Library World Atlas to Andre Lafond, age 14, of Ottawa, Ontario, for his question:

How fast does a planet orbit?

Each planet orbits at its own speed and those nearer the sun travel faster than those farther away. The average orbital speed of Mercury is about 36 miles a second, of Venus 22 miles a second. The Earth, third from the sun orbits at about 18 1/2 miles a second and the orbital speed of Mars averages about 15 miles a second.

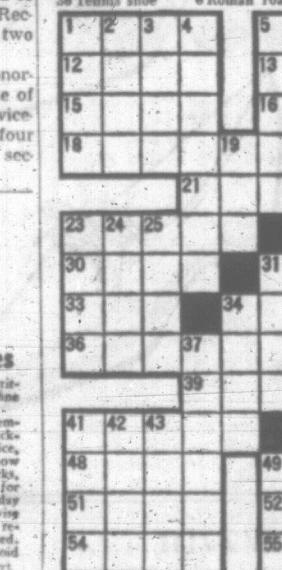

Giant Jupiter pokes around its orbit at an average speed of eight miles a second and Saturn at six miles a second. The average orbital speed of Uranus is 4.25 miles a second, of Neptune 3.4 miles a second and Pluto dawdles around the farthest orbit about three miles a second.

'CHIEF MAN FULL OF KNOWLEDGE'

COMOX — Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson was dubbed Chief Ku-yimien—Man Full of Knowledge—by an Indian tribe here Tuesday.

Comox-Puntledge Chief Andy Frank threw a red blanket around Mr. Pearson's shoulders and made him a chief at the airport here.

"Honorable sir, we welcome you this day," he said. "A very suitable name," commented Mr. Pearson. "I hope I will live up to the traditions of the tribe."

He said he had been made a chief of only one other band in Canada—the Ottawa and Ojibways in Ontario—but they called him Wind in the Face.

"Everytime I visited them I made a speech," he explained.

The Liberal leader had intended to do some main-street politicking on the island.

But when he drove through Comox and Courtenay there were few people on the streets, and only a couple of school children recognized him in his car and waved to him.

However, he got a better turnout—about 100—at a reception in the Courtenay Elks Hall.

Unless his schedule goes awry again today Mr. Pearson plans to take off in his chartered DC-6 for some real main-streeting in Kelowna and Cranbrook.

Then tonight he goes to Lethbridge and Calgary.

CADETS MARK EPIC BATTLE

NANAIMO—More than 40 sea-cadets from here will be going to Victoria this weekend to take part in the Battle of the Atlantic activities, a special feature of Navy Week.

The boys leave Friday afternoon for HMCS Naden and will enter into competitions with cadets from other units.

Address Switch Called False By Liberals

COURTENAY — A newspaper report that the members of an entire overseas regiment have changed their addresses to Prince Albert is false, said a spokesman for the Liberal Party touring B.C. with party leader Lester Pearson.

Tom Fielding, a public relations officer with the Young Liberals, said that last year 10,000 Petawawa soldiers attempted to change their addresses to the prime minister's home town but because of recent regulation changes were unable to do so until January of February.

"The Prince Albert voting figure has not yet been released," said Mr. Fielding "but there are only about 25,000 people actually residing in the area. If the number of eligible voters exceeds this figure it may be due to a change in servicemen's addresses."

"Even if the soldiers have changed their addresses, it would not necessarily mean they wanted to vote for John," he added.

Nanaimo Playwright Scores Hit

LADYSMITH—An original play written by Nanaimo playwright Tom Walsh, "The Reluctant Bridegroom," walked off with the glory at the Central Vancouver Island Drama Festival which ended here Saturday.

The comedy, presented by St. Peter's Players of Nanaimo, took four of the seven festival awards, and it will represent the area at the provincial drama finals in Dawson Creek late in May.

Adjudicator Jack McCreath, supervisor of drama for Alberta, picked the play as the best original, best directed and best visual production.

Johanna De Leeuw won the best actress award for her role as Mrs. X in the Duncan Little Theatre entry, "The Stranger."

Best supporting actress was Dorrie Pearson as Sultana in "The Godsend," a Yellow Point Drama Club production, and best supporting actor was Arnold Olsen as Mr. Stratton in the Nanaimo Theatre Group's "Separate Tables."

Mr. McCreath gave honorable mention to Eve Lindenthal, who played Salome, and Tom Bullman as Caiaphas for their roles in "The Case of Humanity Versus Pontius Pilate" by the Lake Cowichan Drama Club; Luke Francoeur and Ken Gogo as Alfonso and the chief of police in St. Peter's Players' "Beware of False Profits"; Pat O'Neill for direction of his original play, "The Shelter," staged by the Yellow Point group; Marjorie Walker for direction of "Oracle Oak" by Ladysmith Little Theatre; Irene Justice for costumes in Duncan Little Theatre's "Poor Cinderella."

'Booby-Trapped' Moslems Slit Throat of Bystander

EICHMANN'S TO ADOPT CANADIAN

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Adolf Eichmann has agreed to adopt a 16-year-old Canadian girl and asked his wife to take the necessary steps, informed sources said today. The girl was not further identified.

Mrs. Vera Eichmann flew here Sunday for her first meeting with her husband since he was arrested outside their Argentine home two years ago.

Eichmann also told his wife that "anti-semitism is wrong" during their prison meeting Sunday, the sources said.

'World Tension To Continue'

ATHENS (AP)—U.S. State Secretary Rusk, arriving today for a NATO meeting, told reporters he sees no prospect of immediate relaxation of world tensions.

"For the immediate future I wish I could hold out a prospect for relaxation but I cannot," Rusk said in an airport statement.

Foreign and defence ministers from the nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization will make one of their periodic appraisals of NATO policies, touching on the Berlin situation, nuclear power and East-West relations in sessions here.

Foremost among the problems facing the 15 members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was the delicate question of control of nuclear weapons, now essentially in the hands of the United States.

ALGIERS—A savage wave of Secret Army terrorism including the explosion of a booby-trapped car left at least 16 Moslems dead and upwards of 100 wounded today.

It was the bloodiest day in recent weeks in Algiers, and for a time it appeared that Moslem patience was about to break into bitter widespread vengeance against the Europeans.

One European caught up in a Moslem crowd after the booby-trapped car exploded had his throat cut. But otherwise the well-disciplined Moslems, taken in hand by nationalist agents, kept calm.

One nationalist told a reporter, however, "this sort of thing can't go on eternally."

At least eight Moslems were killed when the booby-trapped car exploded like a bomb beside a crowd of 1,500 Moslems waiting for work on the Algiers docks. About 100 were injured.

Blast Opens Up Big Crater

Crowds of ragged Moslems were pressing around the hiring office when suddenly without warning the car exploded. Panic sent scores of Moslems fleeing in all directions, then began returning to carry off their wounded.

The car was ripped apart and pieces were hurled for several dozen yards.

When the explosion charge—fixed with a time "fuse"—went off, it opened a crater about eight or 10 feet in diameter in the paved dock area along the Mediterranean sea front. A water pipe was cut and a geyser shot up from the scene.

The European Secret Army which opposes Moslem rule in an independent Algeria, has been desperately attempting to provoke the Moslems into attacks on Europeans, in the hope that the French Army would side with the Europeans. Thus, the cease-fire agreements signed March 18 would be compromised or broken and Algeria's evolution toward independence would be slowed or halted.

Third U.S. Test Blast

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States today exploded its third nuclear device in the planned series of tests in the atmosphere. The shot was in the vicinity of Christmas Island in the Pacific, as were the two earlier ones.

The European was seized and killed by a band of Moslems when he approached the area shortly after the blast. It was the second terrorist attack against a Moslem labor centre in two days.

LISSIE, The Netherlands—Three busloads of European royalty arrived here today for a visit to Holland's famed Keukenhof tulip gardens.

The guests—some of whom had never ridden in anything so plebeian as a tourist bus before—were in the country for the celebration of the 25th wedding anniversary of Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard.

With Juliana in the first bus were Britain's Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

Three buses, especially hired for the occasion by Juliana, were equipped with a wardrobe, water, refrigerator and bar.

Pearson Explains Plan:

Nuclear Arms Only With NATO

Test-Ban Parley To Resume

GENEVA (Reuters)—The Soviet Union agreed today to further efforts to break the nuclear test-ban deadlock in the three-power subcommittee of the 17-nation disarmament conference.

But Russia at the same time sharply criticized the United States disarmament plan and the Western disarmament stand in general.

A British spokesman said the U.S., Britain and Russia will meet Thursday, ending speculation that the Russians would refuse to further negotiations in protest against renewed American nuclear testing.

But diplomatic observers were cautious about the final Soviet attitude pending the outcome of Thursday's meeting, at which Russian test-ban negotiator Semyon Tsarapkin will preside.

Chief Russian delegate Valerian Zorin made a "very bitter" speech in reply to an address by the British delegate suggesting more informal meetings at the conference here, authoritative Western sources said.

VOICES SUSPICION

The source said Zorin's hour-long address was "a mixture of suspicion and insinuation directed against the United States disarmament plan and Western intentions generally."

British delegate Joseph Godber meanwhile told the conference that his confidence in Russia's will to disarmament had been "much shaken."

He said he was afraid that the Soviet refusal to agree on the vital question of international verification of nuclear explosions and other suspicious events "is just not good enough."

Who Bought Hydro Bonds?

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

The mystery of who is buying Premier Bennett's $25 million issue of 5% per cent B.C. Hydro and Power Authority bonds deepened today, although a press conference called for this afternoon in the premier's office could shed some light.

Twice this week—Monday night at Quesnel and Tuesday night in Victoria—the premier has stated that the issue was oversubscribed "by millions."

Despite these statements, B.C. Hydro bonds were being bought in Vancouver by wholesale dealers at 99% to 99½% or ¼% to ½% off the price to the retail dealers.

In other words, some dealers were still selling the bonds at less than what they paid the government for them, despite the premier's statement that the issue had been a great success.

Price of the bonds to the public was set at $99.50 by the government, with the price to dealers of $98.75 allowing them a ¾ per cent commission.

There was speculation that the premier's statements of the issue being oversubscribed indicated a large sale perhaps as much as $17 million worth—to a large investment firm.

The buyer could put the bonds "on the shelf" and wait for an upswing in the bond market hoping for a price which would pay the cost of "carrying" the issue and would yield a profit.

For instance, there is a rumor that the province of Ontario is planning to come to the market with an issue of 5 per cent bonds priced at $99. On a comparative yield basis this could push the B.C. Hydro issue up to par.

POOR SALE

Local dealers still maintain that the issue has gone very badly so far as the general public is concerned and that not more than 25 per cent of the issue was sold in the open market.

They also remain skeptical of the premier's ability to sell his "many millions" more unless he is offering them at a healthy discount from the present "draw-down" price of $98.75.

Leader Warmly Welcomed

By FRANK RUTTER

The federal election campaign here got off to a fast start Tuesday night when 500 Victorians turned out to meet Liberal Leader Lester Pearson at Central Junior High School.

The little-advertised meeting, billed as a "reception" for coffee and handshakes, showed the first break of election enthusiasm through Victorian reserve. Mr. Pearson drew enthusiastic applause.

It was the climax of a day's dash down Vancouver Island in which a lot of things went wrong—but everything went just right for the national Liberal leader in Victoria.

He shook a lot of hands alright—but then added an unexpected "serious" speech on defence policy.

Main plank of the Liberal defence policy is to stop Canada from becoming a nuclear power; but Mr. Pearson wouldn't promise that policy will not be changed.

"We won't make nuclear weapons, acquire them or use them, either under our own control or under the control of the U.S.," he said.

But he added: "In no way do I apologize for adding that this is our position on the basis of present information which we have. We would examine each new development in the field of foreign policy and in the field of weapons, according to the overriding responsibility of a government for the security of the Canadian people."

ALLIANCE POOL

And, Mr. Pearson said, it might be necessary for Canadian forces under NATO control to be equipped with nuclear weapons in an alliance pool.

Arms can't protect us if we get into a war—nothing can protect us," he said.

"The only justification for arms is to prevent war."

"So we have to spend money on defence for this purpose."

Such a situation has been proved by history ineffective in preserving peace, Mr. Pearson said. Sooner or later there would have to be "a breathing space."

"In that breathing space you can find a better foundation for peace."

This was what the Liberal party would work for.

"We must work toward the day when peace will be protected by something better and stronger than the fear of reprisals that would annihilate the world."

Mr. Pearson said the NATO nuclear pool that he suggested would work to that goal by limiting rather than expanding the number of "nuclear nations" with individual control over their weapons.

TORIES FAILED

Two things a Liberal government would do that the Conservatives have failed, he said, are:

To tell the public and Parliament its full defence policy; To make clear decisions.

'Star and Garter' Runs Dry for Big Party

An old-time saloon to be named the "Star and Garter" is being erected at Cordova Bay for an old-time birthday party Saanich is throwing next Tuesday for Victoria centenary.

But Saanich officials, who are organizing the festivities, said the building will be a saloon in name only as all drinks will be "dry".

However, they added, to make up for the lack of liquid spirits, can-can dancers and entertainers will perform in the make-believe saloon which has been named after a tavern which existed in 1861 on Government Street.

Other types of entertainment to be held at the party at Mattick's Cordova Bay farm will be a tug-of-war contest to be staged between six teams.

The teams will represent the navy, army, Saanich, Oak Bay, Esquimalt and the city.

There also will be lots of dancing. Under the direction of Adeline Duncan dancers will perform Scottish flings, and members of the Florence Clough School of Dancing will perform musical types.

The Kinsmen Club will hold

hole-in-one and gold claim staking contests. The proceeds will go towards charitable causes.

Festivities will begin shortly after 8 p.m. when Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes arrives by car at Cordova Bay School where he will be met by Reeve Stanley Murphy and Mrs. Murphy.

Mr. Pearkes will then get in a horse-drawn vehicle, and with an escort of out-riders will be taken to the party grounds.

The opening ceremonies will begin at 8.30 p.m. when Bishop Rankin of the Church of Our Lord dedicates a 100-foot long birthday cake illuminated by 100 candles.

Mr. Pearkes will cut the cake after a navy pipe band "pipes" a broad sword for the cutting ceremony.

Festival officials said Mrs. Ethel Moore of Cordova Bay, who is 78, has been named "centennial mother" for the party.

Five generations of Mrs. Moore's family have been living in the Cordova Bay area and her uncle was the first white male born in Victoria in 1851.

Zoning Plan 'Setup' For Province

Report Asked By Committee

Strong opposition to proposed zoning of the Legislative Precinct was voiced by several aldermen today.

Public works committee was told the zoning, limiting property owners to their existing privileges, would deflate values in the area bounded by Belleville, Douglas, Michigan and Oswego.

"Legally we may be able to do this but morally it's wrong unless the property owners are compensated," said Ald. M. J. Griffin.

"In effect we are setting this up so that the government can eventually buy this land cheap."

Committee ordered full report from all department heads for analysis of all ramifications.

Greater Victoria municipalities will be asked to pool their resources for a single 1967 federal centennial project, rather than developing four small projects.

Works committee recommended that intermunicipal committee be asked to consider desirability of a joint area project using about $500,000 in federal-provincial grants so that the search for a suitable project could begin.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelov strongly urged development of the Gorge waterway as the centennial project but Ald. M. J. Griffin said all possibilities should be considered.

Mayor R. B. Wilson said one suggestion has been for a fine arts building at the Gordon Head campus.

Committee recommended approval for a proposed Kiwanis Club plan to erect a tent on a parking lot at View and Douglas June 8 and 9 for selling pancakes during centennial celebrations.

Three Admit Burglary Of Sooke Store

Six persons appeared in Sooke RCMP court Tuesday in connection with the theft of $700 worth of goods from Gibson's Shopping Centre, Sooke, on April 10.

Robert Turnbull, 18, Gerald Haldane, 18, and Richard William Helmbecker, 16, pleaded guilty to charges of breaking and entering and theft.

They admitted removing a panel of glass to enter the building and to stealing three transistor radios, a record player, 10 cartons of cigarettes and a quantity of clothing.

Magistrate Eugene Murphy remanded them a week for sentence.

Another youth, Raymond Peter Sweeney, was remanded for plea on charges of breaking and entering and possession of stolen goods.

Stefano Croco, 30, pleaded guilty to possession of stolen goods and was remanded a week for sentence.

Police said he was passing the store at the time of the robbery on his way to work and took some of the stolen clothing along with him.

Kenneth Wilman of Glen Lake admitted possession of one of the stolen radios and was also remanded a week for sentence.

REGISTRATION REQUIRED FOR GARDEN TOURS

People planning to take bus tours to private gardens opened during Victoria's three-day Spring Garden Festival, which starts Thursday, must register at festival headquarters, 906 Government, officials said today.

Registration may be made by telephoning EV 5-9004 during the day. The buses will leave the C&C depot for the gardens at 1 p.m., returning at 5 p.m.

A total of 16 private gardens are included in the bus tours. In addition, 15 other gardens have been opened to the public, but visitors to these must provide their own transportation.

Board Backs Hillcrest In IWA Fight

Only a court's decision can determine who is right in a dispute between a group of Duncan woodworkers and Hillcrest Lumber Co., union local president Weldon Jubenville said today.

His statement followed a Labor Relations Board decision that orders members of International Woodworkers of America Local 1-80 to "cease and desist" interfering with the company.

A separate order received by the lumber company simultaneously authorizes prosecution of Mr. Jubenville on four counts of violating the Labor Relations Act.

Mr. Jubenville said he would consult legal counsel this afternoon on both orders to determine his own and the union's position.

BUS WITHDRAWN
Seventy loggers of the local, who were employed by Hillcrest at Mesachie Lake, have not worked since Jan. 2, when the firm withdrew—as previously announced—its employee bus service from Duncan, a distance of 20 miles.

The union has maintained from the start that the loggers were not striking. They showed up daily at the bus stop since the bus stopped running.

Peter Stone, a director of the company, said today Hillcrest had applied to the Labor Relations Board for a ruling against the IWA's Hillcrest members "in that they had done certain acts prohibited by the Labor Relations Act."

Members are ordered to stop supporting, encouraging and condoning interference with Hillcrest operations.

Proceedings against Mr. Jubenville would charge him with violation of the act and breaking the collective agreement with Hillcrest.

'LITTLE DELICATE'
"I'm not at liberty to say just now what we are going to do," Mr. Stone said. "It is a little delicate for us to say whether legal proceedings are planned."

Each of the 70 idle men was sent a copy of the Labor Relations Board order Tuesday, and Mr. Stone said this was hoped to persuade them to return to work.

The company has threatened to cancel seniority of the men. It claims a June shutdown may be necessary due to reduced log output from the Mesachie Lake operation.

Esquimalt Men For New Ships

450 Will Switch To Atlantic Coast

Esquimalt naval personnel will man the two newest ships in the RCN during their first 10 months in commission on the east coast.

About 450 officers and men will be transferred from the Pacific to Atlantic Commands for this period, it was learned today.

Ships involved are the destroyer escorts Mackenzie and Saskatchewan, now nearing completion, Esquimalt at Montreal and Saskatchewan at Yarrow's Ltd., Esquimalt.

The bulk of the personnel will be drawn from the Pacific Command destroyers Assiniboine and St. Laurent, both of which will pay off this year for extensive modernization, including the installation of a helicopter landing deck and variable depth sonar.

Reason for the transfer of officers and men is that the west coast, with two of its seven destroyers withdrawn from the fleet, has a surplus of highly skilled trades specialists.

The west coast will also man the Assiniboine and St. Laurent when they return to the fleet.

Assiniboine pays off in June, St. Laurent in September. Some specialists in the electrical and engineering branches will proceed east shortly, to stand by the Mackenzie prior to commissioning in October.

Saskatchewan is scheduled to commission early in 1963.

It is possible, but not yet definite, that Mackenzie and Saskatchewan may be transferred to this coast, and Assiniboine and St. Laurent join the Atlantic Command after modernization.

Woman Driver Faces Charge Of Negligence

A woman alleged to have been the driver of one of two cars involved in a fatal traffic accident at Fairfield and Foul Bay April 19 has been charged with criminally negligent driving.

Mrs. Molly Carroll, 1711 Cedar Hill Cross Road, appeared briefly in city police court today when the charge was read.

The Crown accuses her of criminal negligence in the operation of a motor vehicle causing the death of 66-year-old Mrs. Blossom Smith.

At the time of the accident Mrs. Smith was a passenger in a car driven by her husband. Eyewitnesses said the impact threw her out of the car to the pavement.

OFF ASSINIBOINE

The second car contained Mrs. Carroll, her husband, AB Raymond Carroll, and friend AB Morris Sherman, both of HMCS Assiniboine, and her five-year-old daughter.

Mrs. Carroll is free on bail. At the request of defence counsel George Gregory, Magistrate William Ostler adjourned the hearing to May 15 to set a day for trial.

BUDGET BUZZ

For Want Of a Nail The Shoe...

By JOHN MIKA

Aldermen Tuesday may have rewritten the old rhyme beginning "for want of a nail the shoe was lost."

New version at the council budget session was "cut the shoe was lost."

They're prepared to spend almost $750,000 for a police system mainly intended to catch criminals — and then gamble on losing convictions in that to save $400.

That's how much they saved by eliminating city prosecutor Angus Smith's request for purchasing the Western Canada Criminal Reports series — one of the sets of law books that comprise the tools used by a prosecutor in winning convictions.

Ironically, council readily approved a number of improvements to the shabby prosecutor's office costing about $1,000.

So, Mr. Smith will get a tape recorder, office furniture — including a coat stand — and some paint over the peeling walls.

But he won't get the law books he requested.

ASK THE TIMES

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Are you sure that Jordan River, on the west coast of Vancouver Island, as you recently put it in your column, is not instead called the River Jordan? I also don't think it was named after the Jordan River of the Holy Land, J.P.

A. Jordan River is correct; it appeared as such on the very earliest maps of Lopez de Haro. However, you are correct in saying that it was not named after the River Jordan of the Holy Land. It was named after one Alejandro Jordan who went to Nootka in 1790 as chaplain and remained there for sometime.

His next public meeting will be Tuesday at Colwood Community Hall, 8 p.m.

The Cats Protection League will hold a bazaar in the Canadian Legion Hall, Blanshard Street, next Saturday from 2 to 4 p.m.

Victoria Musical Art Society will present its centennial opera production, "Gianni Schicchi," at Oak Bay Junior High School tonight starting at 8.30. The performance will be repeated on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Retail food clerks employed in major B.C. shopping chains have voted overwhelmingly against a company offer for increased wages and annual holidays.

Result of a vote taken Monday night at meetings held here and in Vancouver was 84 per cent against terms offered to members of Retail Food Clerk's Union by Stores, It was learned today.

John Nicol, Victoria representative of the union, said more than 150 of a 200-member local, turned out to ballot locally.

"It was the biggest membership meeting ever recorded (by the local) in Victoria," he said.

CITY ENGINEER KEEN ON PROPOSAL

Charter Rights Asked for Sport Fishing

Visions of a harbor sport fishing fleet operating out of the Inner Harbor as a major tourist attraction filled city council public works committee discussion today.

They were triggered by an application from G. F. Harley, 620 Seagriff, for permission to solicit tourist business from the city floats for short and long charters of his fishing boat.

The whole subject was referred to the city engineer's department for a report and consultation with the Chamber of Commerce.

"This is an activity of the order desperately needed by Victoria in order to keep visitors here," city engineer J. C. Garnett said.

"If we could ultimately work up a real fleet for this purpose it would be infinitely more worthwhile than having even (pleasure) cruisers in the Inner Harbor, but there should be room for both."

B.C. HYDRO ISSUE

$94.2 Million In New Bonds

Premier Bennett announced new B.C. Hydro bond issues totalling $94,200,000 at a press conference this afternoon.

Of this amount, $54,200,000 is "now on sale" and another $40,000,000 will be issued "shortly" to redeem B.C. Electric Co. 6 per cent convertible sinking fund debentures Series B.

The $54,200,000 issue of 5 1/2 per cent 20-year bonds covers former B.C. Power Commission short-term financing and completes B.C. Electric takeover arrangements.

WON'T SAY

The premier refused to tell reporters where the bonds — both last week's $25,000,000 issue and the subsequent $54,200,000 issue announced today — had been sold.

Investment dealers in the past 10 days have said the public was not buying and had questioned the premier's earlier statement the $25,000,000 issue had been sold.

Asked where the money had come from, the premier replied:

"Where does money come from? We haven't got a printing press."

He was asked why there was an outcry against the earlier issue.

"You tell me," he said. "They're always against the government... the PGE..."

SAME TERMS

The $54,200,000 issue which it is assumed has been sold, carries the same terms as the earlier issue and has been priced at $99.50.

He said there had been no provincial agency buying of the bonds but did not deny that the agencies might buy some later.

Mr. Bennett insisted the province's financial position today is sound.

"The credit of B.C. was never better and our standing is the best in North America," he said.

LIBERAL CHIEF GIVEN WARM WELCOME HERE

Keep Nuclear Arms in NATO Hands

By FRANK RUTTER

The federal election campaign here got off to a fast start Tuesday night when 500 Victorians turned out to meet Liberal Leader Lester Pearson at Central Junior High School.

The little-advertised meeting, billed as a "reception" for coffee and handshakes, showed the first break of election enthusiasm through Victorian reserve. Mr. Pearson drew enthusiastic applause.

It was the climax of a day's dash down Vancouver Island in which a lot of things went wrong — but everything went just right for the national Liberal leader in Victoria.

He shook a lot of hands alright — but then added an unexpected "serious" speech on defence policy.

Main plank of the Liberal defence policy is to stop Canada from becoming a nuclear power, but Mr. Pearson wouldn't promise that policy will not be changed.

"We won't make nuclear weapons, acquire them or use them, either under our own control or under the control of the U.S.," he said.

See Other Stories, Pictures, Pages 2, 3

But he added: "In no way do I apologize for adding that this is our position on the basis of present information which we have. We would examine each new development in the field of foreign policy and in the field of weapons, according to the overriding responsibility of a government for the security of the Canadian people."

ALLIANCE POOL

And, Mr. Pearson said, it might be necessary for Canadian forces under NATO control, to be equipped with nuclear weapons in an alliance pool.

"In that breathing space you can find a better foundation for peace."

This was what the Liberal party would work for. "We must work toward the day when peace will be protected by something better and stronger than the fear of reprisals that would annihilate the world."

Mr. Pearson said the NATO nuclear pool that he suggested would work to that goal by limiting rather than expanding the number of "nuclear nations" with individual control over their weapons.

TORIES FAILED

Two things a Liberal government would do that the Conservatives have failed, he said, are:

To tell the public and Parliament its full defence policy; To make clear decisions.

Onlooker Suffers Slashed Throat

(CP From AP-Reuters)

ALGIERS — A savage wave of Secret Army terrorism including the explosion of a booby-trapped car left at least 16 Moslems dead and upwards of 100 wounded today.

It was the bloodiest day in recent weeks in Algiers, and for a time it appeared that Moslem patience was about to break into bitter widespread vengeance against the Europeans.

One European caught up in a Moslem crowd after the booby-trapped car exploded had his throat cut. But otherwise the well-disciplined Moslems, taken in hand by nationalist agents, kept calm.

One nationalist told a reporter, however, "this sort of thing can't go on eternally."

At least eight Moslems were killed when the booby-trapped car exploded like a bomb beside a crowd of 1,500 Moslems waiting for work on the Algiers docks. About 100 were injured in the withering hail of metal. Many were so badly hurt they were not expected to live.

Tension mounted in the Casbah and other Moslem quarters as cars carrying the wounded arrived from the blast scene in front of an employment centre for Moslem dockworkers.

European workers in nearby banks and industrial firms were hurriedly sent home as French security forces and Moslem insurgent agents tried to head off a murder rampage by Moslem crowds.

The European was seized and killed by a band of Moslems when he approached the area shortly after the blast. It was the second terrorist attack against a Moslem labor centre in two days.

Blast Opens Up Big Crater

Crowds of ragged Moslems were pressing around the hiring office when suddenly without warning the car exploded.

Panic sent scores of Moslems fleeing in all directions, then began returning to carry off their wounded.

The car was ripped apart and pieces were hurled for several dozen yards.

When the explosion charged with a time fuse went off, it opened a crater about eight or 10 feet in diameter in the paved dock area along the Mediterranean sea front. A water pipe was cut and a geyser shot up from the scene.

The European Secret Army which opposes Moslem rule in independent Algeria, has been desperately attempting to provoke the Moslems into attacks on Europeans, in the hope that the French Army would side with the Europeans. Thus, the cease-fire agreements signed March 18 would be compromised or broken and Algeria's evolution toward independence would be slowed or halted.

Powers to Resume Test-Ban Parley

GENEVA (Reuters) — The Soviet Union agreed today to further efforts to break the nuclear test-ban deadlock in the three-power subcommittee of the 17-nation disarmament conference.

But Russia at the same time sharply criticized the United States disarmament plan and the Western disarmament stand in general.

A British spokesman said the U.S., Britain and Russia will meet Thursday, ending speculation that the Russians would refuse to further negotiations in protest against renewed American nuclear testing.

But diplomatic observers were cautious about the final Soviet attitude pending the outcome of Thursday's meeting, at which Russian test-ban negotiator Semyon Tsarapkin will preside.

Chief Russian delegate Valerian Zorin made a "very bitter" speech in reply to an address by the British delegate suggesting more informal meetings at the conference here; authoritative Western sources said.

VOICES SUSPICION

The source said Zorin's hour-long address was "a mixture of suspicion and insinuation directed against the United States disarmament plan and Western intentions generally."

British delegate Joseph Godber meanwhile told the conference that his confidence in Russia's will to disarmament had been "much shaken."

He said he was afraid that the Soviet refusal to agree on the vital question of international verification of nuclear explosions and other suspicious events "is just not good enough."

Corporal Jailed, Reduced in Rank

OTTAWA (CP) — A general court martial today sentenced Cpl. Gerald Albert West, 33, to 30 days in detention and reduced him to the rank of private for his part in the smuggling of gold and opium in Indochina.

Detention in army terms means close custody in an army provost corps prison. Being cut to the rank of private will also mean West's basic pay to $134 a month from $187, but he will keep whatever allowances and trades pay he has earned.

West was the first of five soldiers to be tried by court martial here.

Thursday the military court will begin the case of Cpl. Hector Joseph Noel, of the Saskatchewan Signals Troop, who is charged with "conduct to the prejudice of good order and discipline."

The verdict was read by the court president, Brig. N. H. Ross of Fredericton, after he and the four other members of the court deliberated in a closed room for two hours.

Third U.S. Test Blast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States today exploded its third nuclear device in the planned series of tests in the atmosphere. The shot was in the vicinity of Christmas Island in the Pacific, as were the two earlier ones.

CROWNED HEADS GO PLEBEIAN

Buses, Bars and Tulips

(CP from Reuters-AP) LISSE, The Netherlands—Three busloads of European royalty arrived here today for a visit to Holland's famed Keukenhof tulip gardens.

The guests—some of whom had never ridden in anything so plebeian as a tourist bus before—were in the country for the celebration of the 25th wedding anniversary of Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard.

With Juliana in the first bus were Britain's Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

Three buses, especially hired for the occasion by Juliana, were equipped with a wardrobe, water, refrigerator and bar.

The royal party included the Shah of Iran and his Queen Farah, King Olav of Norway, the Grand Duchess of Luxembourg, Britain's princesses Marina and Alexandra, and Dutch princesses Irene, Margriet and Marjke. Dutch Crown Princess Beatrix met Belgium's King Baudouin and Queen Fabiola at Schiphol Airport. They then drove to the Keukenhof by car.

The crowned heads were greeted by Lisse Burgomaster T. J. M. De Graaf and a cheering crowd.

The Keukenhof is a flower-bedecked park which features tree-lined walks, artificial hills covered with daffodils and tulips and ponds with swans, ducks and rustic bridges.

Tonight the guests will attend a ball on board the 20,565-ton liner Oranje, named for the Royal Dutch House of Orange.

"Satura" is three ways more effective:

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

In deference to the status of the regiment's colonel-in-chief, Princess Mary, and of the cross-Canada television coverage which the presentation of colors on June 16 will enjoy, Lt. Col. Peter Ramsay of the local Scottish is determined to make his citizen soldiers as regular-force-looking as possible.

Officers of the regiment shudder, however, at his latest plan to ban spectacles for officers on parade.

The prospect of a lot of half-blind gentlemen promenading about the field with drawn claymores is horrifying to the rank and file and anyone else who is not entitled to carry similar weapons with which to defend themselves.

Don Shea, editor-in-chief of Victoria College's student newspaper The Martlet over the last college year, was presented with a full set of the year's papers bound in blue leather at a small dinner the other night held for college editors.

What Don doesn't know yet is that the gift has more than an ornamental value. When he takes over his new job as director of student publications for the college, he will find that the bound set is the only complete file of Martlets in existence.

After 45 years of catering to royalty, British gentry, millions of ocean-going passengers, and countless numbers of troops on the high seas during the war, Bill Parr, catering superintendent of Canadian Pacific Steamships at Montreal, soon will retire here to cater for himself.

A native of Cheshire, England, he has travelled all oceans aboard the Empresses of Japan, Asia, France, Canada and Scotland as steward.

He has prepared meals for the then Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip after their marriage in 1947, and for the Queen of Spain, the Prince of Wales, the dukes of Kent and Gloucester and the Maharajah of Jind.

During the war he was twice torpedoed while catering on the Empresses then functioning as troop carriers.

With his wife he will take up residence at 4580 Vantreigh Drive.

Mrs. Gordon Wismer, wife of a former B.C. attorney-general, has opened an antique shop in the main lounge of the Empress Hotel.

It is known as the Elizabethan Room.

A most un-touristy exclamation came from the lips of official tourist greeter Lona Donaldson as she and her bagpipes met the first flow of visitors from the Princess Marguerite last Friday.

"Gosh," said Lona, "it's so cold, I can hardly get the pipes going."

Lona won't have to worry about the weather for a while, as she doesn't go piping again until after her school term is over in the middle of June.

In honor of Victoria's 100th birthday, Greater Victoria Philatelic Society, Vancouver Island Philatelic Society and Victoria Junior Stamp Club will hold a tri-club exhibition in the Douglas Room of the Hudson's Bay store from Tuesday to Saturday of next week.

On display will be a complete issue of World Refugee stamps and an exhibit from the post-office archives in Ottawa.

Training hard for the upcoming Victoria Day parade is local kennelman Michael Williams and his three star border collies Skip, Fan and Mist, who plan to repeat their performance of last year in which they herded half a dozen sheep along the route to demonstrate the use of the dogs. They'll be putting on a couple of shows daily at the Jaycee Fair, too.

Off to the Royal School of Military Engineering at Chilliwick is Lieut. Anthony Ferguson, 216 Anson, who has served in Victoria with the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, since 1958.

A small tailor shop on Cook Street announces in its window that it caters to:

even if that meant changing policy to meet changing conditions.

These moves would involve setting up a parliamentary committee on defence policy, something the Tories have refused for four years, and frank discussion with NATO allies on Canada's responsibilities and commitments.

At present these would be limited in North American defence to a role of detection and warning.

'LOOK SILLY'

The Conservative government had failed to follow through on its defence decisions and "as a result, we have wasted millions of dollars, we have defaulted our commitments to our allies."

"This government has made Canada look pretty silly," Mr. Pearson said.

He paid tribute to External Affairs Minister Green for efforts in the cause of world peace. But it was regrettable that so often Mr. Green's colleagues had "sabotaged" those efforts.

About 50 people met Mr. Pearson at Patricia Bay Airport.

The first thing he did was to kiss a baby—the son of responsibility.

Liberal campaign worker Frank Preston, and buy a Victoria centennial dollar bill.

DELAYED BY FOG

A visit to the Comox RCAF base was called off as the Liberal touring party ran behind schedule all day after almost two hours delay at Toronto because of fog.

But Mr. Pearson drove to Courtenay and attended a coffee and sandwiches reception in the Elks Hall where about 100 local supporters gathered to meet him.

"This is the most important election which we are entering, I think, in peace time, since confederation," he told them.

"We are facing situations in the world which probably transcend anything we have found in peacetime in this country."

"I don't say we have all the answers, but I do tell you we can do more to help our country meet and solve these problems than any other party."

He said he wanted "not the honor of government, but the honor of responsibility."

IN BENNETT LAND

Pearson Among Blossoms

By FRANK RUTTEE
Staff Reporter

KELOWNA—Lester B. Pearson flew into the home town of Premier Bennett, apples, and Ogopogo today, looking for a liberal blossom time.

Fifty Kelownians met him at the airport, but he didn't attract more than a few casual waves as he drove downtown in an open convertible at the head of a 20-car cavalcade.

There were no apple blossoms as yet—only peaches, apricots and cherries. Premier Bennett and Ogopogo weren't there either.

OPEN AIR LUNCHEON

Some Liberals finally appeared—about 100 of them—at an open air buffet luncheon beside a swimming pool in the ritzy Capri Hotel.

On his way to town, Mr. Pearson dropped in at David Lloyd Jones Senior Citizens' Home.

He introduced himself to the oldest resident, 93-year-old A. S. Toogood.

"I'm very excited to meet you," said Mr. Toogood.

Asked by reporters if he would vote Liberal in the June 18 election, Mr. Toogood said:

"I'm not going to promise."

Mr. Pearson also visited City Hall—although there were no crowds there to meet him—and signed the guest book as "Leader of Her Majesty's Opposition," adding in an aside, "Pro tem."

Mr. Pearson was escorted by Elmore Philpott, candidate for the local federal riding of Okanagan-Boundary; Frank Velair, candidate for Okanagan-Revelstoke, and Jari

DIEF TOLD MACMILLAN

ECM Role Would Hamper Commonwealth Status

TORONTO—Prime Minister Diefenbaker expressed doubt that Britain could continue its present role in the Commonwealth if it was to become a member of the Common Market, when he held talks in Ottawa earlier this week with Prime Minister Macmillan, it was learned here Tuesday.

Should the United Kingdom join the six-nation Common Market it would no longer be able to give its undivided attention and allegiance to the Commonwealth, Mr. Diefenbaker emphasized in his discussions with his British counterpart.

Canada was concerned about this aspect of the developments in Europe. The Canadian Conservative government was afraid that Britain would have to relinquish its pre-eminence position in the Commonwealth, sources here told this correspondent.

Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Macmillan had three meetings. There was a restatement of the positions of both governments concerning Britain's negotiations to join the Common Market. The result was a "better understanding" on both sides of the other's position, a source said here.

GIVES REASONS

Mr. Macmillan outlined to Mr. Diefenbaker and members of the government how the British government felt about the Common Market and why it was anxious to join. He set out the political and economic reasons behind the British application.

Mr. Diefenbaker for his part restated Canada's position. It is understood from informed sources that he expressed concern that it would have adverse effects on Canada trade-wise and also that it would have adverse effects on Britain's position in the Commonwealth.

He is understood to have stressed that if Britain committed itself to the Common Market then undoubtedly it would have to devote considerable attention and allegiance to the ECM. No longer could Britain have a "single-mindedness" about the Commonwealth and Commonwealth affairs, her allegiance would inevitably be divided.

The strength with which Mr. Diefenbaker and his colleagues put forward this argument surprised Mr. Macmillan.
